MANCHESTER

If there was nothing else to write about at this time it would be about mud and disagreeable weather. The rising temperature has brought Jack Frost to the surface and the roads are in a terrible condition. Our rural carriers say the roads through their respective routes are the worst they have had since they have been in the service, and hauling in general is only one half of a load. On Saturday a moving van from Baltimore passed through town heavily loaded and when three miles north they mired and did not get away until Sunday forenoon when they were pulled out with horses. At this writing the heavy showers have somewhat settled the mud.

Mrs. Jacob A. Frederick entertained the members of her respective club and a number of invited friends last week who enjoyed a pleasant evening in the social circle and fine refreshments nicely served by the hostess, who appreciated the nice collection that was given her for the parsonage fund.

The scholars of the Manchester High school gave an entertainment in the Opera House on Friday evening to a nice audience from whom they earned worthy applause in giving "The Dutch Detective," a farce in three acts with the following cast: Otto Schmultz, a correspondence school detective, Charles Mitten; Plunk Jarbeck escaped from asylum, Lamar Hoffman; Jacob Grabb, police of Splinterville, Ralph Yingling; Major Hannibel Howler on war path, J. E. Musselman; Augustus Coo, a newly wed, Russell Barnhart; Gladys Howler Coo, his bride, Anna Ridge; ly; Ambrosia McCarty, queen of the lunch room, Naomi Barnhart; Miss Araminta Sourdrop, who loses her jabot, Mollie Brilhart; Hortensey Smatters, escaped from the asylum, Ruth Houck, Katrina Kraut, from Hamilton Cidy, Ohio, Mary Loats. The music was furnished by Prof. H. F. Loats and Miss Mildred Hanson whose introductory on the piano was fine while Mr. L. showed he was master of the horn. The receipts were some twenty dollars, giving them a nice sum for their treasury.

The Willing Workers Aid Society of Trinity Reformed church had a paper sale on Wednesday. Messrs. Harvey J. Rhodes and Clinton V. Lippy collected and hauled the paper to Greenmount and loaded it in a car that was forwarded to the Schmidt & Auld Paper Company at York, Pa. They had 7000 pounds.

Mrs. John E. Masenhimer entertained the members of her club and friends on Tuesday evening at her home on North Main street where they had an enjoyable company. At a later hour the hostess served refreshments. She had the banner collections of clubs $12.80.

K. they will exhibit on Saturday evening 1st.

The teachers meeting last week was well attended although the day proved to be among the worst of the season.

Dr. Harry Preston has vacated the hotel building on North Main street, and moved to the Warner home opposite the foundry on Foundry avenue. The Old Washington house that has been a land mark for a century or more will soon be among the things of the past as the new owner, Mr. Edward Trump, will tear down all the buildings on the lot and erect two dwelling houses on the front and a garage on the rear. Mr. Trump, too, is negotiating with the El Dallo Cigar Company, of Baltimore, who is domiciled in the Sheaver home on North Main street, to build the company a factory within the limits of the town.

Mr. Samuel Smith bought a lot from John Grosse on the East side of the macadam road just outside of the town limits.

Mr. George Asper vacated the farm of Nelson Grove, West of town, and Mr. R. Wilderson occupied it as farmer last week.

WILLIAM JAMES HEAPS

Republican Candidate for Congress in the Second Congressional District of Maryland.

My entrance as candidate for congress in the Second District is in response to the insistent and persistent appeal of political friends from all parts of the district.

When I accepted the nomination in 1914 when only defeat was certain, and NO ONE ELSE in the district would have it, I did so for the good of the Party, and with the understanding that if I made a good showing I would have the backing of the leaders in 1916. The record of 1914 is history and speaks for itself. I make my appeal because of that record.

I believe in PROTECTION and PREPAREDNESS and shall if nominated make my fight on Republican Doctrines as laid down by the Chicago Platform.

I believe I am entitled to the nomination.—

FIRST:—
Because of the Excellent run in the face of overwhelming odds in the campaign of 1914:

SECOND:—
Because of my loyal support of the Party in the last Spring Mayoralty Campaign:

THIRD:—
Because of the strenous efforts put forth on behalf of our candidates in the Gubernatorial Campaign last fall when I went at the party's call to every part of the state:

As I canpot meet ALL the voters personally, I hereby ask their support.

PHILIPS LEE GOLDSBOROUGH

Requests the support of

ALL REPUBLICANS

As their candidate for

United States Senator

At the primaries to be held Monday, May 1, 1916

Mr. Goldsborough is the candidate who is best qualified by ability and experience and by the fact that he is known to be the man who will represent all the people of his state and will effectively support their every interest. He is the man to whom all will be proud to point as Maryland's representative in the highest Legislative body in the world.

See what the four corners and the middle of the state say about him.

WESTERN MARYLAND

Col. W. Bladen Lowndes son of former Governor Lowndes.

"What I am most concerned about is that we shall name for Senator, a man in whom the people have confidence. He must be a known quantity and a known quality. He must be known by the real test of public life. He must be conspicuous for his ability as a statesman and needs be of recognized personal power as a thinker and speaker. Such a man is Phillips Lee Goldsborough and I am not convinced that there is now available any other man in the state whom we can elect."

Benjamin Armstrong Richmond, Cumberland.

"I believe that the results in the general election depend upon the wisdom of the Republicans in nominating Phillips Lee Goldsborough for Senator. I do not think there is another man in the state who can be elected to that office on the Republican ticket and I do not think there is a Democrat in the state who can defeat him."

SOUTHERN MARYLAND

Senator John E. Mudd. of Charles county.

"Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the ablest man within the Republican ranks in Maryland. The record he achieved as chief executive of the state is one of which Republicans can feel justly proud. I feel confident he will receive the support of the Independents. He is the man of the hour in the coming Senatorial primary.'

Thomas Parran, of Calvert county.

"The public record of Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best asset of our party and one that appeals to all classes of voters. It will elect him the next United States Senator. I cannot believe that the voters of Maryland will repudiate at the coming primary, the splendid administration that has just been given us by Governor Goldsborough.

NORTHERN MARYLAND

Senator Richard S. Snader, of Carroll county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is an individual possessed of executive ability high above the average of public men in governmental affairs. As governor he demonstrated he exercises his abilities with an eye solely to the building up of the state. I feel sure we can put Carroll county in the Goldsborough column in the primary."

Clarence Oldfield, of Howard county.

"Afte careful thought and frequent interviews with Republicans in Howard county, I arrived at the positive conclusion that Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best qualified candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator."

EASTERN SHORE

Senator Henry M. McCullough, of Cecil county.

"No Marylander has a record of accomplishments that can surpass that of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, who, unaided by fortune, has won success in his political career, entirely through his well-directed efforts to serve the people of his state and country."

Wilbur F. Turner, of Wicomico county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is the strongest man in the Republican ranks. His administration demonstrated he knows the wants of the people and is able to secure for them what they need. This applies particularly to the counties and I am for him."

BALTIMORE CITY

Col. Edward C. Carrington.

"Former Governor Goldsborough has been twice elected by the peopeople of Maryland to high office in a state-wide vote. As between Mr. Goldsborough and his opponent, I would feel that I was guilty of bad citizenship if I did not vote for Mr. Goldsborough."

Dr. Howard A. Kelly, noted surgeon and sturdy Democrat.

"Mr. Goldsborough was the model governor of Maryland and we have never had a better one. His appointments in Baltimore City,—Magistrates, Police Commissioners and members of the Liquor License Board, gave us, without exception, the best officials we ever had in these positions."

John B. Ramsay, vice-pres., Merchants-Mechanics Nat'l. Bank.

"Upon the success of Mr. Goldsborough in the Primary, depends the success of the Republican party in the general election."

Published by authority of C. Wilbur Miller, Treasurer.

OBSCURITY IN WRITING

People who read novels have followed with interest the notices of the death of Henry James. His literary work is a remarkable illustration of one who might have attained a very wide influence, but failed to do so. This failure is due to certain defects of style, of which a great many writers are guilty, and which interfere with success in a great many careers.

Henry James had marvellous gifts for interpreting human nature, and charming graces of description. But he buried these gifts in an involved and obscure style. So his works are collecting dust on the back shelves of the libraries. He never cared for that. He was anxious only to appeal to certain ultra refined tastes, and indifferent to the common run of mankind. Yet when an author has such gifts they seem lost when not put to their wildest use.

Some people who make pretences toward discrimination in taste, seem to think that when a writer is obscure, he must be great. More often he is too indolent to think his subject out to a conclusion, and get it into lucid form.

An old Roman rhetorician laid down this principle: "Write not so that people may understand, but so that they must understand." A book, a newspaper article, a magazine review, that fails to pass that test is fundamentally defective. It is not enough that a writer give his readers fitful and hazy glimpses of his subject. The English language is the vehicle of endless forms of expression and gradations of meaning. If a man has any grasp at all of an idea, he should think it out until he can define it clearly and lucidly.

Public speakers often do not apply this principle. Many ministers fail because they preach over people's heads. They realize that in giving an address, there must be double effort for lucidity. If the writer is not clear, the reader can at least try the sentence over again. If a speaker is involved and tortuous, the hearer loses the thread and goes to sleep.

Hints To Monument Purchasers

Cheap monuments are dear monuments, because like other cheap goods, they do not give full value for one's money. Mathias' monuments are stand quality, at moderate prices Mathias presents at all times the lowest priced monuments worth buying, and all the intermediate grades up to the highest priced monuments worth buying, which emphasizes this well known fact—Mathias' is the best place to buy monuments whether simple or elaborate.
