PETERBOROUGH Pump Works

During the past winter I was successful in securing a great quantity of unusually fine pump timber. This will be of benefit to all my customers, and will serve to maintain the high standard of quality that my goods have enjoyed in the past.

Pumps for Every service

And satisfaction guaranteed in every case.

Steel Widmills

The "Ideal," for 1897, is by all odds the best in the market. Its first cost is ver low, when you remember that it is strictly A High Grader, and the annual cost for maintenance and repairs is lower still. I have handled those mills for six years and have never yet made a repair on account of defect in material or poor workmanship.

Send for particulars of my other lines. WASHING ACHINES, etc.

At Montreal Mrs. Deguire rescued two of her children from a burning house, making a desperate rush through smoke and flame with one under each arm. She fell exhausted when the children were in safety.

Four men, named Elias Weeks Edward Chase, John Fitzgerald and Gilbert Bonter, were upset in a sailboat near Brighton. Fitzgerald and Bonter were drowned, and the other two rescued in an unconscious condition.

The Bobcaygeon Independent refers as follows to a nuisance that has reached annoying proportions in this as well as many other towns: "She was about nine years old, with light hair, and blue eyes, and she slightly lisped, and she entered the office of this great journal without the least sign of timidity to insist that each member of our staff should purchase a thimble and a packet of needles for ten cents She had a paper box full of the articles she peddled, and she admitted oh questioning that she had become a peddler in response to an advertisement of a Toronto firm and because she wanted new "skirt." Another young lady of about the same interesting age as the thimble peddler called at the private residence of the editor of the psychological department of this journal and fairly compelled him to buy a "sachet" of perfume to place among his clothing. This also was a ten cent peddler. A little boy, certainly not ten years of age, called and without hesitation presented a box of toilet soap and pressed for its purchase. Another ten cent peddler. The number of such children is very great. The children are by no means unconscious that they are "doing" the purchaser, and rely on their natural nerve and childish innocence and attraction to beguile those they address into becoming purchasers. Is this sort of thing to be allowed to go on? Is the rising generation to be taught to be mercenary? Are the children to believe that the one great and foremost object of life is to grab dollars? Are they, in point of fact, to be instructed in the best modes of trading on the people? It is not the children who are to blame. It is the Toronto firms who lead them into temptation, and the parents who allow their children to follow such deteriorating employments. The remedy is very easy. There is already a law enacted which declares that every peddler must take out a license. There is no good reason why children shou'd be allowed to break this law. Then enforce the law against children, and the firms that supply the goods would at once be driven out of business."

Standard Bank Was Robbed of $11,000.

Bowmanville the Last Ontario Town to Be Thrown Into a State of Wild Excitement.

Town Watchman Was Handcuffed and Gagged While the Cracksmen Blew Open the Treasury Vault.

Bowmanville, May 13.—The Standard Bank, on the corner of King and Temperance-sts., the business centre of the town, was burglarized this morning between 2 and 3 o'clock, and all the money in the vault, excepting the coppers was stolen, with a number of valuable papers.

Henry Metcalf, the night watchman, employed by the Town Council to patrol the business streets, had just finished taking his lunch in the police office in the Town Hall block, only about fifty yards from the bank corner, when he heard footsteps on the sidewalk, and went to the door to see who was passing. As he stepped from the police office door to the street he was seized by two masked men, one on each side of him, and his arms raised from his sides to prevent his reaching his pocket for his revolver. He was pushed back into the office and the baton wrested from his hand by a blow from some instrument that inflicted a gash on the back of the head, now badly swollen. Metcalf was then blindfolded by a third party with an ordinary white linen handkerchief, and gagged by another similar handkerchief.

Threatened to Kill.

When his arms were first seized two other men stood, one on each side of him, with revolvers pointed to his head, and he was told that "If you open your peep we will shoot you." They took from his pocket a pair of handcuffs, and placing his hands behind him, handcuffed him and he was then marched by the two men towards the bank. Before he was gagged Metcalf said: "Boys, is this a game?" thinking it might be some local sports playing a trick on him. One promptly answered, "No, it's business; we are going through the bank." He was taken a few steps south of King-st., beside the bank, and his legs tied with a piece of rope that apparently had been part of a clothes line.

Five in the Job.

One man stood by him as he sat on the sidewalk with Metcalf's revolver, which they had taken from him, in hand, while the others, at least five in number, proceeded to do the job.

A large pane of glass was cut with a die from a west window and an entry secured to the manager's office. The front door was pried open, apparently from the outside, though Metcalf thinks from the sounds heard, that it was oppened from the inside. The vault is entered by two separate doors, both very strongly constructed of iron.

Blew Open the Safe.

Very soon he heard an explosion, the men having run on to the street by the front door. They immediately returned to the building and in a few minutes there was another explosion. The burglars had now secured entrance to the inside vault, where they rifled the contents of several boxes, some belonging to the manager and others to customers who had placed them there for safe keeping. Before the third explosion, which blew open the massive safe. Metcalf was moved a few yards farther south so as to be away from danger should the wall be blown out. This explosion, like the others, was very successful, and it was the work of only a few minutes to secure the contents.

The safe had the latest improvements, time lock, etc., but the door, which must weigh half a ton, was warped like a piece of sheet iron, and torn completely off its hinges, and the side of the safe cracked open and otherwise badly wrecked, so as to be beyond repair.

$11,000 Gone.

The amount of money stolen is over $11,000 belonging to the bank, and $90 to the Canada Life Insurance Company, for which Mr. W. J. Jones, the manager, is agent; $110 belonging to the Queen Fire Insurance Company, both of which were in a private pouch. Many valuable papers are also missing, receipts, drafts, etc.

Not a Clue.

The Government detective could not find the slightest clue to work on. The bank officials do not know the numbers on the bills, and even if they are circulated it will be next to an impossibility to detect them. There were three trains which passed through Bowmanville early Saturday morning after the safe-blowing, two east-bound freights and Montreal express, arriving in Toronto at 7 a.m. Thus far the authorities have not got any information as to in which direction the robbers went after leaving the town.—World.
