Newark Days

It's a Wizard's World is filled with Enchantment

This year, Newark Days is celebrating its 63rd birthday with its very own Wizardry World for four wonderful days, September 20 – 23. Here's your chance to put on a magician's hat and do some tricks or cast a spell over an audience and delight them with some hocus pocus of your own.

Music, dance, tacos and fun at Mariachi Fest

Mariachi bands, ballet folklorico dancers, kids' activities, a taco-eating contest and an outdoor market celebrating Mexico's food and art will be highlights at the ninth annual "Hayward Mariachi Festival" on Friday, September 14 at City Hall Plaza.

The free, family-friendly event is hosted by the Hayward Chamber of Commerce Latino Business Roundtable, the City of Hayward, and the Downtown Business Improvement Area. Guests should bring lawn chairs and blankets. This year's featured performers are Mariachi Mexicanisimo and ballet folklorico dancers from Grupo Tlapalli.

Activities for kids will include face painting, Dia de los Muertos mask coloring, and paper flower making.

The annual taco-eating contest will again be sponsored by Jorge Espinosa and his team from El Taquito #2 restaurant. Specialty beverages will include margaritas, sangria, and Mexican beer.

For more information, contact the Hayward Chamber of Commerce at (510) 537-2424 or susanoc@hayward.org.

Evening of Empowerment supports domestic violence survivors

BY ROELLE BALAN

The best way to love is freely, without judgement or restrictions. Safe Alternatives to Violent Environments (SAVE) is here to make sure your intimate relationships are healthy and peaceful.

SAVE was founded in 1976 as a grassroots organization by a group of women in the Tri-City area. Their goal was to help victims of domestic violence, when someone close to you is abusive in order to gain power. The abuse can be physical pain, emotional suffering, or stalking by a close family member, friend, or romantic partner.

In 1976, there were no shelters to protect a victim of domestic violence. Now, SAVE administers an emergency shelter for domestic violence survivors; a secret address protects residents. "Sometimes the abuser will go looking for them; if they know where they live they can harass them or do worse," said SAVE Director of Development Paula Manczuk.

Back to School Checklists Should Include Vaccinations

A vaccination protects the health of a child—and classmates, friends, other children, or mature adults he or she may encounter.

Preparing for the new school year typically involves picking up new school supplies, finding the right backpack and packing those lunch boxes. It also means that kids and teens need to be up to date on their vaccinations.

Making sure your children are vaccinated on time is an important step in protecting their long-term health—and that of classmates, friends, relatives and others in the community. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), vaccination is one of the best ways parents can protect infants, children and teens from 16 potentially harmful diseases. Vaccine-preventable diseases can be very serious, may require hospitalization, or even be deadly—especially in infants and young children.

“Parents need to protect their children from serious, potentially life-threatening illnesses,” says Bhaskari Peela, MD, a pediatrician with the Washington Township Medical Foundation. “One way you can do that is to make sure your children’s vaccinations are current. Having your children and teens up to date on vaccinations also will protect the health of infants who are not yet old enough to be vaccinated.”

Dr. Peela recommends following the guidelines from the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) and the CDC.

They include the following:

- Measles, mumps, rubella (MMR)
- Polio
- Diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTaP), with a booster vaccine called Tdap at ages 10 to 12
- Haemophilus influenza type B (Hib)
- Hepatitis A
- Hepatitis B
- Chickenpox (varicella)
- Pneumococcal disease
- Meningococcal disease, including the vaccine for serogroup B meningococcal disease
- Rotavirus infections
- Influenza, for all children age 6 months and older

“We also strongly recommend the vaccine against serogroup B meningococcal disease for people 17 through 22 years of age,” Dr. Peela says. “These infections are to blame for about half of all cases of meningitis, which can be severe, even terminal.”

The AAP also recommends vaccinations against the human papillomavirus (HPV) for boys and girls 9 years old. HPV infection can lead to cervical cancer in girls. It also can lead to other serious diseases, such as vaginal, vulvar, and anal cancer. Also, it can cause genital warts. “The HPV vaccine now contains more strains of the virus for additional protection,” notes Dr. Peela.

For a complete schedule of recommended vaccines, visit www.cdc.gov/vaccines.

Dr. Peela emphasizes that the protection provided by childhood vaccines far outweigh the very small risks of any serious reactions. “Most kids have no reaction to their vaccinations other than minor soreness at the injection site, a mild rash at the vaccination site, or a low-grade fever,” she notes.

Because young children’s immune systems are not as well developed as adults’, they are particularly vulnerable to bacterial and viral infections. Many vaccines provide long-term—possibly even lifetime protection—against a variety of illnesses. Flu vaccines, in particular, are recommended every year because the types of flu viruses in circulation are constantly changing. The CDC recommends getting a flu vaccine by the end of October. The earlier, the better, however, as it takes about two weeks after vaccination for the flu-protecting antibodies to develop in the body.

Over the years, vaccinations have prevented—and helped eradicate—countless diseases and saved millions of lives. The CDC states that it’s always better to prevent a disease than to treat it. If you have questions or concerns about any of the recommended vaccines, talk to your child’s doctor.

If you need help finding a physician for your child, visit the Washington Township Medical Foundation website at www.mywtmf.com and click on the tab for “Find A Doctor.”

YOU ARE INVITED!

Morris Hyman Critical Care Pavilion

Community Open House and Tours

Here's a chance to see and learn about our new state-of-the-art, seismically safe and family-centered pavilion.

Join us on this special day and tour our beautiful new 224,800 square-foot health care facility uniquely designed to provide the very best care and comfort for our patients. Its unique features include peaceful gardens, maximum natural light, the use of green materials, and the most advanced seismically safe technology that will allow the building to remain in operation during and following a major earthquake.

The opening of the Morris Hyman Critical Care Pavilion ensures Washington Hospital will continue to meet the ongoing and growing health care needs of the community. The pavilion has all private patient rooms in a more advanced emergency department that is four times larger than the existing one; a state-of-the-art critical care unit with 48 private patient rooms; and 68 medical-surgical rooms for cancer, medical, telemetry and intermediate care patients.

Washington Hospital is community owned and focused, and you, a resident of the Tri City area, are one of its owners. We hope you'll take this opportunity to celebrate this historic milestone and important step toward better serving our community into the future.

Come see your new facility!

MORRIS HYMAN

The critical care pavilion was proudly named after Morris Hyman, community leader and advocate, visionary, philanthropist and Fremont Bank founder.

For decades, Mr. Hyman improved many lives in our community and gave generously to various causes including health care, education and the arts. His varied contributions included the creation of the Fremont Bank Foundation, Conrad E. Anderson, MD, Auditorium at Washington Hospital, free community aortic aneurysm screenings, the Morris and Alvirda Hyman Hall for Business and Technology at Ohlone College, the Alvirda Hyman Learning Center at Fremont Adult School, Aqua Adventure Water Park at Lake Elizabeth-Central Park, the Silliman Swim Center in Newark, Bridgeway East Transitional Housing in Fremont, and providing food to thousands of people in need throughout our community. His participation on the Fremont Recreation Commission was instrumental in creating Central Park. His commitment to the community and the strong values he embodied live on today through the culture and generosity of Fremont Bank and Fremont Bank Foundation, a key donor that helped bring our critical care pavilion to fruition.

Mobile Food Bank

SUBMITTED BY GREGORY BORTKIEWICZ

Officials from the Kidango Graham Center in Newark are marking the fifth anniversary of the center's mobile food pantry with a celebration on Wednesday, September 12. In partnership with the Alameda County Community Food Bank, the pantry is spearheaded by Graham Center Director Ofy Melero who manages the pantry which operates the second Wednesday of every month.

Melero often recruits volunteers from her children, family, Kidango teachers and staff, and local students who need volunteer hours. Leftover food is offered to preschool children's families and Kidango teachers, and Melero will personally drive around the local area to drop off other leftovers at local shelters, ensuring that nothing goes to waste.

The partnership began with a year-long Kaiser grant, after which Melero took it upon herself to continue the pantry. Fresh fruit and vegetables, milk, eggs, bread and dried goods are available for 165 families on a first-come basis, with the set-up imitating a farmers' market. The pantry has grown over the years into a community event; Alameda Alliance and Tri-City Health Center also set-up stalls to offer information to families.

Kidango is a Bay Area nonprofit committed to helping children reach their full potential by providing high quality early learning services to the children who need it most. The Alameda County Community Food Bank has been providing hunger relief efforts in the Bay Area since 1985. This year, the Food Bank will distribute the equivalent of 30 million meals.

The Kidango Graham Center's food bank will be open 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12 at 36270 Cherry St., Newark. For details, call (510) 456-4942.

Middle Eastern and Greek Festival

SUBMITTED BY JASON QUILES

The greater Tri-City area represents an abundance of diversity; a melting pot of people from all walks of life. St. James Orthodox Church will host a festival to celebrate many of these cultures at its 13th annual Middle Eastern and Greek Food Festival, September 14-16. Experience a day of games, live entertainment, dancing, and delicious cuisine with a virtual vacation to the warm Mediterranean climate and joyful sounds of Greece and the Middle East.

Try a Greek Gyro or a vegetarian Falafel Sandwich while listening to beautiful music. A special children's venue includes jump houses, games, face painting, and much more. In addition, a lucky raffle entrant will drive off in a brand-new Honda Accord; tickets can be purchased on-line.

Bike give away

ARTICLE AND PHOTO SUBMITTED BY DAVID ZEHNDER

More than three dozen needy Tri-City area children are riding new bicycles thanks to a recent bike giveaway sponsored by the Newark Rotary Club. For the August 18 event, held in cooperation with the Newark Police Department, Rotary Club members worked with the Viola Blythe Center to identify 40 disadvantaged children to receive the bikes and participate in the Newark Police Department bike rodeo.

As excited children gathered at Newark Community Park, Newark Rotarians Jeff Aguilar and Jonathan Arguello, organizers of the event, handed each child a new bike with helmets provided by the Newark Police Department. Other Rotarians assisting at the event included current President John Bernard and Past President Laurence Hansen. A big thanks goes to Newark Police Chief Mike Carroll and members of his department who conducted the bike rodeo and assisted with the bike give-away.

Funding for the bike giveaway was made possible through the generous "fund-a-need" campaign during last year's Newark Rotary Club Crab Feed.

The Newark Rotary Club will once again be hosting its annual Crab Feed fundraiser on Saturday, November 17. For tickets, contact David Zehnder at (510) 227-9650 or via email at david.zehnder@newark.org.

Retirement Doesn't Mean Inactive

SIR Branch 59 Presents

The Fremont/Newark/Union City Branch 59 of SIR – Sons In Retirement – holds monthly luncheon meetings featuring guest speakers and, twice annual, "sweetheart luncheons" when wives, daughters or significant others are invited.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday September 19, 2018, at the Fremont Elks' Lodge #2121, located at 38991 Farwell Drive in Fremont.

This month's guest speaker is BART Director Thomas Blalock.

If you are a retired man you should join Fremont/Newark/Union City Branch 59 of SIR! Socializing is from 11:00am to 12:00pm, and there is time to look over an extensive library of books, sign up for activities, and meet new people or shoot the breeze with old friends. The formal meeting starts at 12:00pm with branch announcements, birthday wishes, a sing-a-long, and lunch, followed by an interesting and entertaining guest speaker. Meetings usually end about 1:30pm.

Activities run the gamut from golf, bowling, computers, wine tasting, bridge, bocce, and couples dining out, and more are being added as interest dictates.

SIR Branch 59 welcomes new members. Visit the website at www.sirbranch59.org or call Ron Brutvan at (510) 794-4019 or email sirbranch59@gmail.com for more information. Do it today!

It's a Wizard's World is filled with Enchantment

Parade with Snoopy leading the way, car and truck show – be on the lookout for some vintage flying broomsticks – and great entertainment with Merlin's School of Magic Show. Four days of dance shows, concerts, food and games booths, train, pony and carnival rides.

Who isn't captivated by the charm and enchantment of stories like "Harry Potter" and "The Chronicles of Narnia"? Even adults are drawn in to the world of fantasy where good and evil fight for power and dominion.

This year, Newark Days is celebrating its 63rd birthday with its very own Wizardry World for four wonderful days, September 20 – 23. Here's your chance to put on a magician's hat and do some tricks or cast a spell over an audience and delight them with some hocus pocus of your own. These magical days will take place at the Newark Community Center and surrounding bewitching stops guaranteed to make your hair stand up with all things eerie.

"It's a Wizard's World" will offer plenty of screams and sorcery for kids and adults, with lots of music, games, shows, food and family excitement, too. There's the ever-popular arts and crafts, the parade with Snoopy leading the way, coloring contests, car and truck show – be on the lookout for some vintage flying broomsticks – and great entertainment with Merlin's School of Magic Show. Also included in the four days are dance shows, concerts, community food and games booths, train, pony and carnival rides.

For foodies, Newark Days has much to delight your taste buds. Want to go Italian? Saunter up to the booth for Italian and Polish hot dogs and garlic noodles. Maybe you want to go Asian. Try the teriyaki chicken rice bowl or fish and shrimp egg rolls. There are also smoothies and soft served ice cream and root beer floats.

Shirley Sisk, President of Newark Days, spends all year with her team dreaming about and organizing this event. "It takes a ton of work, but amazingly, when the day finally arrives I'm as excited as Dorothy in the Wizard of Oz." You might see Sisk flying about on her magical broomstick in her wizard's costume as she makes sure all her guests are having a good time.

The magic begins on the MacGregor Playfield Thursday, September 20 with the carnival preview where everyone can ride up to the stars for $1 per ride.

On Friday, September 21 guests will be treated to the food and game booths, the carnival for $35 a ticket for unlimited rides, and the ever-popular $600 haystack hunt for the kids at Area #8 sponsored by the Newark Rotary Foundation. Music begins with the K&K Twilers show on the Wizard's Stage Area #10 followed by the Blues Bottle Band.

Saturday, September 22 events begin at the Community Center Front Lawn Area #14 with the 34th annual Newark Mile race with registration at 7 a.m. Pre-registration is $15 (newarkmile.org) and $20 the day of the race. The Newark Mile begins at 9 a.m. It's sponsored by Don Looby, PricewaterhouseCoopers, Dan and Andrea Sprinsteen, and Slim Fitness.

It's a Wizard's World Parade begins at 9:45 a.m. with the Merlin's School of Magic team serving as Grand Marshals and Snoopy as the Children's Grand Marshal. MCs and spotters for the event are Bill Fitts, Jim Reese, Bernie and Carol Nillo, David Smith, Ed Moore, and Betty Cole.

After the parade, it's off to Area #11 to see the Car and Truck Show. Attendees will appreciate the many vintage models of cars and trucks in several styles, shapes, and colors. Who knows, but a wizard might swoosh by with Ed Moore playing some Quidditch...

A great lineup of performers at The Music of the Wizard's Stage Area #10 begins with Wadaiko

Newark Taiko Drums followed by those four old guys known as The FOG. Then it's on to the Legacy Band, Tru Dance, the Charge Particles Band, Newark Symphonic Winds, and vocal duo DUB:RAE. The headliner show for the day is The Poyntlyss Sisters Rockin' Show Band.

Coloring contest awards are presented at The Magic Stage Area #4 and later children will be entertained by Merlin's School of Magic Show. Merlin the Grand and his closest allies, the Warrior, Harry the Wizard, Morgana the Wise, and their new recruits will go on a magical journey together. It's great entertainment for the whole family. Bring your cameras!

Lori & RJ's Wizard World will have kids and their families interacting with the Master of Yo, Randal Metz and his puppet shows, Lady Emerald and a string of other games. These shows are happening throughout the day Saturday and Sunday at A Wizard's World Stage Area #16. In addition, the magic show with master magician Dan Chan and his assistant James Chan will take place on Saturday and Sunday on The Magic Stage Area #4.

Sunday, September 23 is another day full of fun and activities. Salvador Vazquez and his Mexican harp take The Music of the Wizard's Stage Area #10 followed by the headliner show, Decades – Music Through the Decades, with music from the '40s, '50s and '60s.

Lori & RJ Music will be back and invite all kids and their families for an afternoon of interactive shows with magic. Stick around for a Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk ticket giveaway.

It's a Wizard's World Newark Days is free, so mark these four days on your calendar and enjoy a citywide celebration with your neighbors and friends. Pack your magician's hat and wand, don't forget the white rabbit, and put sunglasses on him for the glare of the spotlight!

What to Do If You Hate Your Boss

BY ANNE CHAN, PhD, MFT

Last column, I wrote about a problem that plagues many employees – bad bosses. If you are in this situation, you probably have a recurring fantasy about quitting. Your fantasy goes something like this: you find a great new job with an amazing salary (or you win the lottery) and you get to announce triumphantly to your evil boss that you are quitting. Ah – the joys of saying “I QUIT!”

Half of American employees have made this fantasy come true by quitting and moving on. But what about those who do not have this option? People stay with bad bosses for different compelling reasons. Perhaps their families depend on their incomes or health insurance plans. Perhaps they have to wait a few more years to get their pensions. If you are stuck in a situation with a bad boss, you might feel like you have no options and are doomed to a miserable work existence. You get more and more depressed and feel less and less like yourself.

This is a recipe for clinical depression. Depression can occur if one feels like one has no control of one's situation. However, how you approach a situation and what you believe about yourself can make a tremendous impact on your mental health. For starters, watch how you talk to yourself and others about your work situation. There is a tremendous difference in saying “I have no choice but to stay stuck in this horrible situation,” as opposed to saying “I am choosing to stay in this situation because I want to provide for my family.” By reframing your situation in terms of your choice and intention, you can shift your perspective from one of having no options to one of having some control.

Feeling a sense of control is critical for mental well-being. You can't change your boss, but you CAN change your interactions with her. Likewise, you might not be able to change how your boss deals with you, but you can most certainly change how YOU deal with him. Your first action step is to take stock of your options and take action.

These action steps, sad to say, probably won't work if you have a seriously dysfunctional or irrational boss. Some behaviors that I characterize as dysfunctional are yelling, bullying, screaming, cursing, and having fits of rage. Bosses this bad cannot be won over or negotiated with. There is also a critical difference between a bad boss and a bad person. If your boss is an inept manager but isn't a bad person, there are things you can do to manage up and have a better working relationship.

I have two suggestions that you are likely to resist but are important in order to have a better relationship with your bad boss. First, take a hard look at yourself and note the things you do that might be aggravating to your boss. Do you do subpar work? Take long lunch breaks? Talk too much? Fail to deliver on your promises? Spend too much time on your phone during work hours? Have a poor attitude? Are you a poor team player? Rest assured that your boss is taking note of your lack of performance. Some of your behaviors might be partial cause for your boss's attitudes and actions. This exercise might be painful but think of it as an opportunity for self-improvement. Take the steps necessary for corrective action.

I have another suggestion that you might resist as well. But go along with this idea for just a bit – try putting yourself in your boss's shoes and imagine what she is feeling and thinking about the workplace. Maybe she is under pressure from her boss and this is why she is pushing you and the other employees. Or maybe he seems aloof and distant because he is a dedicated introvert and finds it hard to approach people. After you have gained some understanding of your boss, ask yourself, “What can I do to get along better with this person?” It might be helpful to brainstorm with a trusted manager or mentor. Through this exercise, you might pinpoint ways that will make for a better working relationship. For instance, the introvert boss might not be communicative in person, but might be much more communicative via email or text. Or maybe your stressed-out boss might be a little less stressed if you give her more frequent status updates on projects and deadlines.

Outside of work, pay attention to the quality of your non-work time. Do things that you love and that make you feel good. Volunteer to feel a sense of purpose and appreciation. Pursue your off-work activities with zeal and passion – don't sit around depressed about your job. Be intentional about having a great personal life and an outlet outside of work

The statistics indicate that many of us won't be blessed with superb bosses. However, you can adjust your actions and expectations to negotiate a better working relationship with your superiors. Remember – you don't have to love your boss in order to have a tolerable working life.

Vendor slots available for health and wellness fair

SUBMITTED BY ALICE KIM

Vendors who want set-up booths at the upcoming Senior Resource Fair in San Leandro are encouraged to get their applications in early because space is limited at the popular event.

The fair offers vendors a good opportunity to market services for seniors including health and wellness, transportation, financial planning, and leisure activities. More than 60 agencies will be on-hand to provide information and answer questions at this event that draws more than attendees each year.

This year's fair theme is “Living Longer, Growing Stronger in San Leandro” and will be open 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12 at the Senior Community Center, 13909 E. 14th St., San Leandro.

A limited number of vendor spaces are available on a first-come basis. Applications are available at the Senior Community Center and Marina Community Center or online at <https://tinyurl.com/2018-SRF-Application>. For details, call Susan Criswell, Senior Services Coordinator at (510) 577-6053.

Expert panel calls for sweeping election security measures

BY FRANK BAJAK
AP CYBERSECURITY WRITER

An expert panel of the National Academy of Sciences called for fundamental reforms to ensure the integrity of the U.S. election system, which is handicapped by antiquated technology and under stress from foreign destabilization efforts.

The cautiously worded report calls for conducting all federal, state and local elections on paper ballots by 2020. Its other top recommendation would require nationwide use of a specific form of routine postelection audit to ensure votes have been accurately counted.

The panel did not offer a price tag for its recommended overhaul. New York University's Brennan Center has estimated that replacing aging voting machines over the next few years could cost well over $1 billion.

"The extraordinary threat from foreign actors has profound implications for the future of voting and obliges us to examine, re-examine seriously, both the conduct of elections in the United States and the role of the federal and state governments in securing our elections," Lee Bollinger, president of Columbia University and co-chair of the panel, said in presenting the report Thursday.

The 156-page report – "Securing the Vote: Protecting American Democracy" – bemoans a rickety system compromised by insecure voting equipment and software whose vulnerabilities were exposed more than a decade ago and which are too often managed by officials with little training in cybersecurity.

The principal recommendations of the study, commissioned in 2016 as foreign intrusion in U.S. elections became evident, reflect a consensus among election security experts that has met resistance from a number of states and Republican leaders in Congress.

In particular, the panel stressed that it is not calling for a one-time fix, but a sustained effort over years that would include regular funding from Congress and greater transparency about attacks on voting systems and other irregularities.

Among its specific recommendations was a mainstay of election reformers: All elections should use human-readable paper ballots by 2020. Such systems are intended to assure voters that their vote was recorded accurately. They also create a lasting record of "voter intent" that can be used for reliable recounts, which may not be possible in systems that record votes electronically.

Roughly one in five U.S. voters cast ballots on such electronic machines in 2016. While some states have scrambled to replace them ahead of November's midterm elections, 13 continue to rely fully or partially on them.

The panel also calls for all states to adopt a type of post-election audit that employs statistical analysis of ballots prior to results certification. Such "risk-limiting" audits are designed to uncover miscounts and vote tampering. Currently only three states mandate them.

The report's release comes barely a week after a major piece of election security legislation was blocked in the Senate Rules Committee by GOP leaders. As originally written, the bipartisan Secure Elections Act would have satisfied the paper ballot and risk-limiting audit requirements. But those aspects have been watered down.

One of the report's authors, Princeton computer scientist Andrew Appel, credits the states for efforts to replace digital voting machines. Most U.S. voters now have paper ballots, he said, so "if the computers were cheating we could recount and tell."

Next up, he said, are risk-limiting audits. "That's the thing I would say where this country really needs to do a lot better."

Early this year, Congress appropriated $380 million to help states bolster election security. But no requirements were attached on how that money should be spent.

MIT political scientist Charles Stewart, another study author, called that money a "down payment" on what's needed to overhaul the voting landscape, including new public-private partnerships to spur innovation.

The report also recommends requiring states to report irregularities in voter-registration systems to the federal government. Illinois' voter database suffered the most serious known breach in the U.S. elections landscape in 2016; the U.S. special counsel reported that half a million records were downloaded by Russian agents.

Experts would also require states and local officials to inform the federal Election Assistance Commission – and the public – of system failures and other voting difficulties. States are often reluctant to discuss such problems.

Baltic countries want Walmart to remove Soviet-themed shirts

BY LIUDAS DAPKUS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Baltic countries have lashed out at retail giant Walmart for selling online T-shirts and other products with Soviet Union emblems on them, and demanded that the goods be removed.

Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania were forcibly annexed by Moscow in 1940 and remained part of the Soviet Union until its collapse in 1991, except for a brief occupation by Nazi Germany 1941-1944. Lithuania has been taking a particularly hard line against its communist-era legacy, banning all Soviet symbols as well as Nazi ones.

"Horrible crimes were done under the Soviet symbols of a sickle and hammer," the Lithuanian ambassador to the United States, Rolandas Krisciunas, wrote Wednesday to Walmart. "The promotion of such symbols resonates with a big pain for many centuries."

"When the Soviet Union occupied Lithuania, hundreds of thousands of our citizens were killed, exiled, tortured, raped, separated from their families. Similar fates struck dozens of millions of other innocent people, including children, across Europe and across the globe," the ambassador wrote.

Krisciunas said he does not believe that Walmart deliberately chose to offend by selling the T-shirts, tank tops and sweatshirts with Soviet symbols and the letters USSR. "But in this case, the T-shirts and other products with the symbols of mass murder should be immediately withdrawn," he wrote.

The Baltic News Service said a group of lawmakers from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania had written Wednesday another letter to Walmart, saying "it is utterly disappointing (that the chain) does not show respect for the millions of different citizens who fell victim to the Soviet totalitarian regime."

Selling such items "demonstrates lack of human decency," the BNS news agency quoted them as saying. They added that Walmart "participates in promotion, among its customers worldwide, of totalitarianism, human rights abuse and suppression of freedom and democracy, the values that allowed such corporations as Walmart to grow and prosper."

"We call on Walmart Inc. to demonstrate their corporate responsibility (...) and immediately discontinue selling of the (...) items," they wrote, according to BNS.

There was no immediate reaction from the retailer based in Bentonville, Arkansas.

It seemed from the site that it is a third-party company that sells the shirts through Walmart Inc.'s page. Similar shirts were also on sale on Amazon's regional sites, but the lawmakers' letter did not mention the company.

In May, German sports gear maker Adidas agreed to remove a red tank top with the letters USSR and emblems of the Soviet Union from its online store. The item was being sold ahead of the soccer World Cup in Russia.

Clothes for people with disabilities highlighted on catwalk

BY RAGAN CLARK - ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Fashion Week has opened its glamorous tent wider to feature models with disabilities wearing adaptive clothing designs by Tommy Hilfiger, Nike and Target.

Organized by the Runway of Dreams Foundation, the show on Wednesday included a catwalk welcoming to wheelchairs, crutches, walking canes and more. Actor and model RJ Mitte of "Breaking Bad" was host.

Mitte said he understood the importance of inclusion on a personal level, having been diagnosed with cerebral palsy at age 3. "I'm really excited to see all this inclusivity and all of these strides to be diverse," he said.

The founder of Runway of Dreams, Mindy Scheier, was inspired to start her foundation when her son, Oliver, who has muscular dystrophy, told her he wanted to wear clothes like everyone else. His request was for blue jeans—a clothing item that would prove difficult to pull on and off with his condition unless the pants were modified. She decided to make him an adaptive pair on her own and realized the need for more adaptive clothing lines for individuals with disabilities.

"Fashion is a direct correlation to how we feel about ourselves, our confidence, our self-esteem," said Scheier. "And if you don't have that, if you don't have options, it can really affect how you feel about yourself. So truly, clothing is a basic need. So, shouldn't we all feel really good and have options like everybody else?"

Model Mama Cax, recently featured on the cover of Teen Vogue's September issue for "The New Faces of Fashion," lost her leg during a battle with cancer. She is now an advocate for inclusion in the fashion industry and walked the runway Wednesday.

She said she wanted to see people with disabilities cast in movies and TV in lead roles or as love interests but without any "inspiration piece attached to it," adding: "We want to see them in a normal role, average role, like we do in our everyday lives."

Jason Redman never expected to find himself at a fashion show. Redman was a U.S. Navy SEAL who suffered injury to his face and body when he was struck by machine gun fire during a special operative mission in Iraq. He received the Inspirational Achievement Award for the clothing company he founded, Wounded Wear.

"People underestimate the power of clothing, the power of wanting to feel good and look like everybody else around us. And that's what this organization does. So to be here, to be an awardee, to be a part of it, it's pretty awesome."

Will espresso-loving Italy embrace country's 1st Starbucks?

BY LUCA BRUNO AND
FRANCES D'EMILIO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will the country that gave us espresso embrace the company that gave us grande Frappuccinos?

Starbucks is about to find out as it opens its first store in Italy on Friday. Residents of Milan, the city whose coffee bars inspired Howard Schultz's vision for the chain decades ago, have mostly greeted the news with a shrug.

"I've tasted Starbucks coffee and I'll absolutely stick to Italian coffee," said Milan resident Giulia Brighenti as she scraped the foamy remains of her espresso at a coffee bar not far from Starbucks' new Reserve Roastery.

In Italy, an espresso at a coffee bar is usually a quick morning or after-lunch ritual, dined while standing up. In many neighborhoods, cafes are on practically every corner, and Italians are on a first-name basis with their trusted baristas.

That presents a challenge for Starbucks, which is hoping people will linger to drink more expensive beverages.

The company has more than 28,000 stores worldwide, but the palatial Milan location is only its third roastery. The others are in Seattle, where the company is headquartered, and Shanghai.

The cavernous former post office near the city's Duomo, or cathedral, has a heated, marble-topped coffee bar. The centerpiece is a 6.5-meter (22-foot) high bronze cask, part of the roasting process that customers can watch. And no, there are no Frappuccinos on the menu.

The company also hopes the store's cocktail bar will be an attraction. Many who work in Milan, Italy's fashion and financial capital, cherish the tradition of meeting friends or colleagues for an "aperitivo," or pre-dinner cocktail, often in cafes.

The company is "not coming to Italy to teach people about coffee. This is where coffee was born," said Starbucks chief design officer Liz Muller. Instead, Starbucks "wanted to come and bring a premium experience that is different to what people in Italy are used to."

That formula includes "many different brewing techniques and a space where we want you to stay longer and relax and enjoy."

Italy is Starbucks' 78th global market, and the Milan opening comes 20 years after Starbucks opened its first store in Europe, in London. The company has described the Milan store as "the crown jewel of Starbucks global retail footprint" and says it plans more cafes for Milan later this year.

Like Brighenti, other locals drinking more traditional espressos at the neighborhood coffee bar were skeptical.

"I think the classic Italian coffee is best," said Gianluigi Manusardi. "I also prefer it when I go abroad."

WSJ: Feds investigating Wells Fargo's wholesale banking unit

AP WIRE SERVICE

The Wall Street Journal is reporting that the Justice Department is investigating potential employee fraud at Wells Fargo's wholesale banking unit.

In the report published Thursday, which cites unnamed people familiar with the probe, the newspaper says investigators are trying to determine whether management at the bank pressured employees to improperly alter customer information without consent.

The Journal says the investigation stems from revelations that employees in the wholesale banking unit added Social Security numbers, dates of birth and other customer information to documents in a bid to beat a regulatory deadline.

San Francisco-based Wells Fargo has been plagued by scandals in recent years, including one that involved employees opening millions of fake accounts for customers without their authorization.

Wells Fargo did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

Maple syrup, honey labels to be spared "added sugar" label

SOURCE: AP - AP WIRE SERVICE

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says new guidance about added sugars that exempts pure maple syrup and honey products will be released early next year.

The agency announced months ago that it was considering requiring pure maple syrup and honey to be labeled as containing "added sugars." Members of the industries that produce those products protested the labels, saying they would be misleading and unfair.

FDA Commissioner Scott Gottlieb said Thursday that the new rules will provide "a path forward for pure, single-ingredient" maple syrup and honey products that does not involve an "added sugars" declaration along with the nutritional facts.

He says the solution addresses "producer concerns that their products could be perceived as being economically adulterated."

Utility asks judge to block release of coal plant facts

BY PHUONG LE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

An electric utility is asking a Washington state judge to permanently block the public release of some economic information it provided to state regulators about its coal-burning units.

The Sierra Club says the public should have clear information about the financial risks of operating coal-burning power plants. It filed a public records request seeking information that PacifiCorp blacked out in a coal analysis the company provided to the Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission this summer.

In July, PacifiCorp won a temporary restraining order to prevent state regulators from releasing that information publicly. A Thurston County Superior Court judge is scheduled Friday to hear whether to make that injunction permanent.

The utility, based in Portland, Oregon, completed a unit-specific analysis on the costs of retiring its coal-burning units – at the request of Oregon state regulators – but redacted some information it said was confidential and "commercially sensitive."

"This is a partial analysis that doesn't provide a complete picture of whether or not a coal unit should be retired early," said Bob Gravely, a PacifiCorp spokesman. He said releasing the information could do real harm because it can be misconstrued and distort the market. The utility provided the redacted information to those who signed non-disclosure agreements, he added.

The utility serves 1.9 million customers in six Western states, including Washington and Oregon. Coal accounts for about 62 percent of PacifiCorp's supply mix, and it has 26 coal-burning units in Wyoming, Utah, Montana and other states.

The Sierra Club says that there's a strong public interest in the information, that it is not a trade secret and that the utility hasn't met its burden to prove that disclosing it would result in harm to the company.

The Sierra Club has been pushing utilities nationwide to retire coal-burning plants or replace them with renewable energy sources such as wind or solar, arguing the cost of operating coal-fired power plants is too high and costs ratepayers.

The Trump administration is actively trying to prop up the coal industry and extend the life of coal plants, said Caleb Heeringa, deputy press secretary for the Sierra Club's beyond coal campaign.

"It's never been more important that we have clear information about the cost of operating of those plants," Heeringa said.

The Environmental Protection Agency last month said it would dismantle Obama-era pollution regulations that it called overly prescriptive and burdensome. Its proposal broadly increases the authority given to states to decide how and how much to regulate existing coal power plants.

In August, an administrative law judge with Oregon's Public Utility Commission sided with PacifiCorp and declined to release the coal analysis, calling it "a trade secret" and not public information.

In Washington, state regulators haven't taken a position, said spokesman Dean Pertner.

"The UTC will release confidential records filed with the UTC that are responsive to a public records request unless there is a court order preventing disclosure," Pertner said.

Man fined $124 for kicking seagull that ate cheeseburger

AP WIRE SERVICE

A man accused of kicking a seagull that tried to eat his cheeseburger at a New Hampshire beach has been fined $124.

Police investigated the report from a bystander at Hampton Beach earlier this summer.

NH1 reports the man Nate Rancloes, said he had just returned from getting a cheeseburger and fries and was sitting on the sand. He said seagulls got to the burger, and he spun around with his leg to shoo one away, but struck the bird. He said it was a simple mistake.

A witness said it appeared the bird's leg was injured and that it struggled to fly away.

New Hampshire Fish and Game Lt. Adam Cheeny says seagulls are protected under federal law.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: AUGUST 15 – AUGUST 21, 2018

For All Signs: Mars, the ancient god of war, is approaching a significant square to rebellious Uranus in the solar system, exact on September 18. Mars increases adrenaline and cortisol, resulting from the stress of will. Uranus is high wired, excitable energy that feels like electricity flowing through the brain. When these two operate together it is incredibly important to keep oneself grounded. It is mandated that we exercise, which uses up the excess hormonal rush and settles us down. When these two are fighting for attention we often get high on our excitement and cannot sleep well. Circumstances can change overnight, so be prepared for twists and turns in your path. The combination can set us up for accidents of any kind. Uranus just moved into the sign of Taurus which points at earth conditions, banks, and financial matters. Keep your eye on your billfold or credit cards.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): All forward motion is put temporarily on hold. You must slow down to manage health issues, whether that of yourself or your partner. Be patient. The structure needed to accommodate your original plan is not in place anyway. Time is required while you or someone you care about heals. Soon your Avatar planet, Mars, will go direct.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): It may be a challenge to hold onto your sense of stability now. Information and new experiences are swirling all around you. Transfer some of that high-wired, electrical energy into a project that uses your muscles and grounds your body. Then you will sleep better.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): See the lead paragraph. Mercury is your ruling planet. It's possible that you have been waffling over several decisions and unable to choose the right ones. Now that Mercury turns direct, you will be able to untangle the various component parts and move in a forward direction.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): This recent set of three eclipses is complete. You are probably dealing with the outcomes of whatever crises and new events have come to you. It may relieve your mind to realize there are probably no more new surprises around the corner. Take a break and get some rest.

Leo the Lion (July 22--Aug 22): Mercury has been retrograding in your sign. This week, as it changes to "direct" motion you may no sooner decide on one thing than you switch to another. Be aware you are trying on answers, just as one tries on clothes. Under these cosmic circumstances it is perfectly normal to argue with yourself. It will be better very soon.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Pleasant memories from the past may surface for your review. As your planetary ruler turns direct (see lead paragraph) you may feel called to contact an old friend. Don't hesitate. It will probably bring a nice experience.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): At this time, you may need to review some of the relationship mishaps of recent months. This is a fine time to talk things over and come to a shared point of view. You may also be considering plans to reconnect with an old friend, or a group association.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Although you may be sorely tempted to use devious methods to get what you want, that action will only catch you on the backside. Karma is fairly immediate for you right now. Offer those in authority your respect, at least for their status in the world. In the fall you have a more direct path to accomplish your aims.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You have one or more angels behind the scenes during this period. People are saying positive things about you and are offering help, even if you do not know it. Psychic impressions, along with your ability to provide healing to others is strong. Follow your intuitive hunches.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): You are under significant financial pressure now. Make an effort to face the problem and find a way to work it out. Hiding will not help. Don't let yourself resort to any get rich quickly schemes. That will only cost you money you can't afford to spend. Use care when driving or using tools. Park only in well-lit spaces. You could be subject to accident.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): Listen closely to your inner self. If you have tolerated a rule well beyond its time, you may rebel and demand to do something different now. Plan a few hours of refreshing change. Try something new. You may have reason to declare your independence at this time, so you can make your own decisions without accounting for the wishes of others.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): This is a time in which you are unusually aware of your spiritual self. You will be recognizing things of life for which you are grateful. You prefer to seek the high road and maintain a positive attitude in spite of any difficult circumstances. You can see a bigger picture now. Hold onto it.

Why 4-H? Find out at Redwood 4-H open house

SUBMITTED BY KAREN SHERMAN

What is 4 H? It started over 100 years ago and has become our nation's largest developmental non-profit organization for boys and girls, ages 5-19. It empowers young people with skills for a lifetime through hands-on projects, leadership opportunities and mentoring with a focus on Head, Heart, Hands and Health – four basic values of life.

To begin a 4-H adventure, join one of many affiliated clubs - ours is REDWOOD 4-H in Castro Valley. Based on your interests, participants select from a menu of projects in areas such as science, health, agriculture, citizenship. Members are guided by adult mentors and encouraged to be proactive in leadership roles; leadership opportunities are everywhere. Besides becoming a teen or junior leader in a project, there are club officer positions, conferences in Washington DC and Sacramento, State Leadership Conference at UC Davis, camp counselor positions, presentation days, organizing events (National Science Day, Dog Field Day, Small Animal Day), community service opportunities, a state exchange program and participation in the Alameda County Fair.

How does 4-H work? 4-Hers come to a monthly club-wide meeting - ours is on the 2nd Thursday night of the month at 7 p.m. - when announcements are made, presentations given and pertinent information is discussed. From there, members have an opportunity to sign up for projects carried out by smaller groups of 4-Hers for in-depth investigation and hands-on experience. Redwood 4-H offers many different projects; club projects for the 2018-19 year include: Vet Science, Rabbits, Camping, Hiking, Sewing, Archery, Horse, Dog Training/Service Dog, Sheep, Baking/Cooking, Goats, Photography, Gardening, Poultry and more!

Every year is different based upon adult volunteers who guide the club. Some projects have age restrictions such as to raising large livestock animals (age 9), but 4-Hers ages 5-8 can work with any small animal). Each project meets at different times and locations during the month.

But we are more than animal projects!

There are so many opportunities for growth in 4-H. For example, Presentation Days allow 4-Hers to work on public speaking through a presentation or report. And summer camp, located in the hills above Calistoga, is an awesome experience! This is how we describe camp - "From the outside looking in, you won't understand. From the inside looking out, you can't explain. But I can say its magic!"

4-H becomes your community, your family, forming strong and lifelong friendships that stretch beyond Alameda County!

Our Redwood 4 H club is hosting an informational OPEN HOUSE, Thursday, September 13. We will meet at Canyon Middle School- in the Cafeteria. Many projects will be on display plus additional information about 4-H and our club. Come join us for fun, food and to see what 4 H is all about. You do not have to live in Castro Valley to join Redwood 4-H. Everyone in Alameda County is welcome.

For more information, please call Karen Sherman at (510) 566-3672 and/or log onto www.Redwood4h.org

Magnificent mulches that cover a lot of ground

Decomposed granite mulch

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY DANIEL O'DONNELL

Ask 10 people what is the best icing for a cake and there will be 10 different opinions. There are many different types of frostings and with rare exception, no cake is complete without one of them. Mulch is the icing on the cake when it comes to an eye-catching landscape. If someone does not like the mulch typically made from chipped trees, the garden will be denied its capstone. Although there are not as many alternative mulches to choose from, unlike the many frosting choices for a cake, there are still enough options to satisfy anyone's palate.

Mulch is a layer of material that is used to cover the soil. The concept of mulch has been around for as long as trees and shrubs have lost their leaves. The leaves that fall and cover the ground in a natural environment create a useful mulch. A layer of mulch reduces evaporation from the soil, suppresses weed germination, insulates the soil in winter, and helps maintain an even temperature in summer. Valuable nutrients are added to the soil as the mulch slowly breaks down.

Aesthetically, mulch makes a good garden look even better. It hides irrigation lines, smooths out rough spots, and provides the ground with a consistent color, pattern, and texture. This allows the eye to focus easily on the intended features of the garden, not any irregularities. The way mulch looks influences people's choice.

Local chipped tree trimmings make what is called arbor mulch, which makes the best mulch for most gardens. Chipped fir bark and shredded redwood bark also provide the benefits that mulch offers, however because they have to be transported from much further away they are more expensive and have a higher environmental cost. These are the most commonly used mulches, but sometimes people do not like the way they look. This is where alternative mulch options can be considered. Although they might be more attractive to someone, many will lack the optimal benefits provided by an arbor or bark-based mulch but still have plenty to contribute.

Rock mulch

Tumbled glass mulch

Chipped pallets are becoming a popular alternative to the more traditional wood mulches because of the consistent color they provide. Worn wooden pallets are chipped into one to two-inch pieces and colored with a non-toxic dye. Colors include terracotta red, mahogany, tan, mocha, and black. The only downside is that when it breaks down it provides very little nitrogen, a main source of nourishment for plants.

Straw is rarely used in an ornamental landscape as a mulch. It's great for using under fruit trees or in vegetable beds. It provides many of the same benefits that other mulches do but breaks down more rapidly. A four-inch-thick layer will last about as long as the life of any annual vegetable. This makes it easy to re-plant and remulch the next spring. Best of all, nothing will give a farmstead feel and appearance to a food production area better than straw.

Sometimes plant-based mulches are perceived as messy, believed that gardeners will blow them away, or something more permanent is wanted. Gravel or stones can be used in these cases as a mulch the same way any plant-based mulch would be used. Using rocks will not provide any nourishment to the garden and if in direct sunlight can cause the soil to heat up excessively, but will provide weed suppression, retain soil moisture, and add a permanent attractiveness.

Sand is an inorganic mulch that makes an instant aesthetic statement. If used with cacti and succulents it lends a desert feel. When used with palms and lush plants it shells out a tropical beach vibe. Sand is one of the best mulches for areas with art installations. It provides many of the benefits of mulching without calling attention to itself, allowing the focus to be on the artwork.

Path fines or decomposed granite is a material that can be compacted to create a walkable hard surface that is water permeable. There are grey and tan tones. The grey fines are an excellent substitute for concrete, which has no benefits for the soil or plants.

Although the benefits of mulch are huge, even a small area will gain from its use. Pots, planters, and between flagstones are all places that need permeability and weed suppression. These places are opportunities to use one of the most artistic looking and colorful mulches. Tumbled glass can be purchased in an array of color combinations. It can also be used in conjunction with gray gravel mulches. It will brighten up the garden while darkening the chances of weeds setting seed.

The only way everyone can have their cake and eat it too is if there are plenty of flavor options to choose from. Using mulch in the garden is the same. Alternative mulches provide the sweet spot that can suit even the most discriminating tastes.

Back to School Water Savings Tips!

As summer comes to an end and the new school year begins, indoor water use can increase. From daily showers to more loads of laundry, it all adds up. Here are some water saving tips to help conserve during the back-to-school rush, and all year long.

- ◆ Use refillable water bottles each day and fill up with tap water. From the schoolyard to afterschool sports, kids should stay hydrated and water is the perfect quencher!
- ◆ Set a timer near the shower for five minutes or less. Don't have a timer? Limit showers to the length of one song! Have fun with this and make it a competition – who can get squeaky clean in the shortest amount of time.
- ◆ Reuse shower towels. Hang towels out after each use so they can dry and are not being washed after a single use.
- ◆ Remind family members to turn off the water when brushing teeth and washing hands.

Evening of Empowerment supports domestic violence survivors

The Empowerment Center, built in 2014, has immediate, in-person crisis support, counseling, and help with restraining orders. Support includes food, clothing, and referrals with legal, financial, and housing help. According to their 2016 – 2017 annual report, SAVE provided services to 12,402 individuals. “It’s been sort of a staple in the community, and reaches out to different groups and clubs,” Manczuk said about the organization. Walk-in hours for these services are Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 12 noon to 4 p.m. at 1600 Mowry Avenue, Suite 201 in Fremont.

The 24-hour hotline is another part of SAVE. Trained advocates can help determine if their situation is abusive even when if the caller is unsure. Calls are confidential and language interpreters are available. All employees of SAVE must undergo a 40-hour domestic violence advocate training program.

Help victims of domestic violence, when someone close to you is abusive in order to gain power. The abuse can be physical pain, emotional suffering, or stalking by a close family member, friend, or romantic partner.

All these services would not be possible without fundraising. SAVE is holding an “Evening of Empowerment” on Saturday, September 22, featuring an Italian buffet dinner, a wine welcome, cash bar, a DJ, and live and silent auctions.

This year’s event will be held at Fremont’s Paradise Ballroom. “We’re excited about the venue; we’re going to have a buffet instead of a plated dinner,” Manczuk said. The buffet dinner includes Chardonnay Chicken and Fettuccine Alfredo.

You're Invited!

Evening of Empowerment Fundraiser to Benefit

Safe Alternatives to Violent Environments

Saturday, September 22 | 6:00 to 11:00 p.m.
Paradise Ballroom | 4100 Peralta Blvd., Fremont, CA

SAVE’s mission is to strengthen every individual and family we serve with the knowledge and support needed to break the cycle of domestic violence and build healthier lives.

We believe that every person has the right to live in peace. Every day we provide shelter, support, and educational opportunities for individuals and families so they may end the cycle of abuse, heal, and have the freedom to reach their potential.

Prizes for the live auction include a safari filled six-day trip to South Africa for two, an eight day stay at Cabo San Lucas, and a “Day as a Detective” ride along. A wine tasting tour for four at Gloria Ferrer Wines, three months of unlimited yoga/pilates classes at Mind Body Zone, and tickets to Children’s Fairyland are offered as silent auction items.

SAVE is hoping to raise $162,000 through ticket sales, sponsorships, auctions, and donations.

“Our big fundraiser had been a breakfast, and as part of the 40th anniversary celebration and trying to do things a little bit differently, renew the event, they changed to a gala and I think it was received well, very successful financially,” Manczuk said. SAVE celebrated their 40th anniversary in 2016 with a gala event called “Night Fever.”

Supporters of the organization have spoken to Manczuk about how SAVE’s services have made an impact in their lives. “Somewhere in the conversation they’ll say, ‘I used your services a few years ago’ or ‘A friend of mine used your services’ or ‘I grew up in a home of domestic violence and I want to give back so I can help other people,” Manczuk said.

“It means a lot to know that the people that we’ve served want to come back and help; to me that’s the biggest compliment we can get.”

Although sponsorship opportunities ended on September 4, limited options may still be available. Sponsors for the Evening of Empowerment include Fremont Bank, Mission Peak Homes, Republic Services, and RINA accountancy corporation.

Celebrate harvest with Moon Festival

SUBMITTED BY ARLENE LUM

The Asian Community Cultural Association (ACCA) of San Leandro hosts the 6th annual "San Leandro Moon Festival" on Sunday, September 16 in front of the Seagull Picnic Area at Marina Park. This is a free event with a full day of cultural entertainment, vendor information, moon cake tasting, and free door prize drawings. Everyone in the community is encouraged to attend; bring lawn chairs or blankets and your sunscreen.

The Moon Festival is celebrated in many Asian countries as a way to thank their gods for the good harvests during the year. The celebration is analogous to our Thanksgiving in America. The Moon Festival takes place on the 15th day of the 8th month in the lunar calendar, when they moon is at its fullest and largest. Some countries, like Vietnam, call it the Harvest Festival or Mid-Autumn Festival. Moon cakes are eaten or given as gifts during the Moon Festival.

Vendors at the festival will include AC Transit, Alameda County

Fire Department, Assemblyman Rob Bonta, Asian American Curriculum Program, Asian Community Cultural Association, Asian Health Services, Asian Pacific Caucus of Alameda County, Chinese Bakery & Deli, Benny Lee for San Leandro Mayor 2018, FH Dailey Chevrolet, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Jamie Duckworth Beauty Products, Ken Pon for City Council, KEST 1450 AM Radio, San Leandro Engineering & Transportation, San Leandro Police Department, San Leandro Recreation and Human Services, Skylink TV, Sound of Hope Media Group, and US Superior Stone & Cabinet.

There will be free raffle drawings between performances with prizes provided by donors, sponsors, and vendors. Pick up tickets at the ACCA table.

ACCA is a non-profit organization formed in 2008 for educational and charitable purposes. Our mission is to share, promote, and educate our community about the Asian culture, customs, and language in order to assist bridging cultural gaps in the community. ACCA helps to improve the quality of life in San Leandro by helping Asians integrate and assimilate in the community by providing networking opportunities and access to community resources and multicultural and multilingual assistance.

For more information, please contact Arlene Lum at 1-800-819-2828.

Free workshop to focus on cyanotype art

SUBMITTED BY JUI-LAN LIU

To celebrate the San Francisco Bay Area Month of Photography during September, the Fremont Main Library and the Fremont Photographic Society are presenting an exhibit of works by local photographers all month long.

The exhibit highlights four subject areas: Landscape, Human Interest, Creative/Abstract and Monochrome. Learn what inspired the photographer to create the image and which techniques and processes were used to achieve his or her vision.

A selection of antique cameras and photography books is also on display. Exhibits are located on the second floor of the Fremont Main Library.

On Saturday, Sept. 15, the Fremont Photographic Society will host a free cyanotype workshop from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in front of the library at 2400 Stevenson Blvd. Cyanotype is one of the oldest and simplest photographic processes.

Those attending are asked to bring objects they would like to image such as leaves, keys, paperclips or flowers to make their own photogram. The process is simple: just expose to the sun, put in water and watch the image appear. Flat, opaque objects with an interesting shape are easiest to work with, but other objects can create interesting images. The workshop is aimed at participants age 6 and older.

My garden friend complains that too many of those rosy-pink flowers are popping up all over on their snake-like stems. Of course, I have planted a dozen, and all I get is one plant.

I'm sure I do everything correctly. My Western garden book says it "grows in any well-drained soil." Another book proclaims "very easy to grow." A plant tome insists "The general cultivation of Amaryllis belladonna is quite easy..." Easy for whom?

At any rate, the flowers are super pretty. The plant likes sun. It needs only winter water. And, if you stick your nose fairly close, it has a sweet scent. Some texts claim it makes a nice houseplant. Others say not. Caution reigns. For all its beauty, the true Belladonna lily is poisonous. Its sap was once used in murderer's potions, and nick-names included sorcerer's-cherry, deadly nightshade and witch's-berry. Some South American Indian tribes used the plants sap to make poison arrows.

On the other hand, there is a plant called Hippeastrum, sometimes called Amaryllis, sometimes called Atropa belladonna, or Barbados lily, that actually is a nice holiday houseplant. Plant scientists continue to discuss the correct name, very confusing. But back to Naked Ladies, Belladonna lily, Amaryllis belladonna. They originated as weedy things in the Cape of Good Hope, and were discovered by some meandering Dutch growers. These growers emigrated to South Africa, and the plant became common.

The name Amaryllis comes from the Greek word amarullis, which means "to shine." Alternate names, besides Naked Ladies, include Magic lily, Saint Joseph lily, Surprise lily and Resurrection lily. If you want to grow them, wait until the blooms are gone. Put bulbs in groups of three. The tops of the bulb necks should be slightly above soil level. Do not divide if you can avoid it. They are unhappy if moved, and may not bloom for several years.

Dear readers, I hope this is not overly confusing. Because the pretty flowers are everywhere now, I thought this would be an easy story. Four hours later, many books all telling different tales, here we are. Happy autumn.

Haunted Railroad

SUBMITTED BY THE RAILROAD MUSEUM AT ARDENWOOD

The "Haunted Railroad" takes your family on a fun, spooky (not scary) train ride through the haunted forest at Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont. The ride is designed for families with children under 12. Live actors play cowboys, pirates, a witch and others, with colorful Halloween inflatables and giant pumpkins in between scenes. Nothing will frighten young children.

Tickets go on sale Saturday, September 15 at 8 a.m. on www.eventbrite.com - search for "Haunted Train." Any unsold tickets will be available at the ticket window on event nights only beginning at 5:30 p.m. This event sold out early last year, so buy your tickets as soon as possible!

Tickets are $10 for ages three and up (two and under are free). The Haunted Railroad operates Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights on October 19, 20, 21, 26, 27, and 28. Trains run every 30 minutes beginning at 7 p.m.

More details are available at www.spcrr.org. This event is a fundraiser for the nonprofit Railroad Museum at Ardenwood operated by Society for the Preservation of Carter Railroad Resources (SPCRR), in association with Ardenwood Historic Farm. What's growing on with school gardens?

More and more schools are planting gardens as part of the effort to get kids to eat healthier foods.

Many experts believe that school gardens offer a powerful path leading to childhood obesity. Growing food in a school garden not only teaches students where food comes from and how it grows, but also helps kids to establish eating habits. The fruits and vegetables grown can even become part of a school's program.

Food for thought
 But gardens can provide other, too. When kids grow gardens, they learn about plants, soil, and water management, and the fields of biology, ecology and environmental studies. They will probably pay closer to the weather.

Smarter Snacks
 Looking for a healthier sort of snack? Give these a try as a fun way to eat more veggies!

Carrot Fries

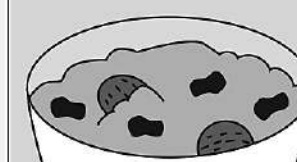

Chop carrots into sticks. Brush them with a little olive oil and sprinkle with rosemary. Bake them at 425° for 20 minutes or until carrots are tender.

Ants on a Log

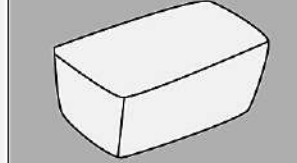

A classic: Spread a little peanut butter on a celery stick and top with some raisins. For a new taste treat, try using different kinds of berries as your "ants."

Ants in the Sand

Crush up some bran flakes or other whole-grain dry cereal into "sand." Mix in raisins (ants) and stir. Use strawberries as ladybugs.

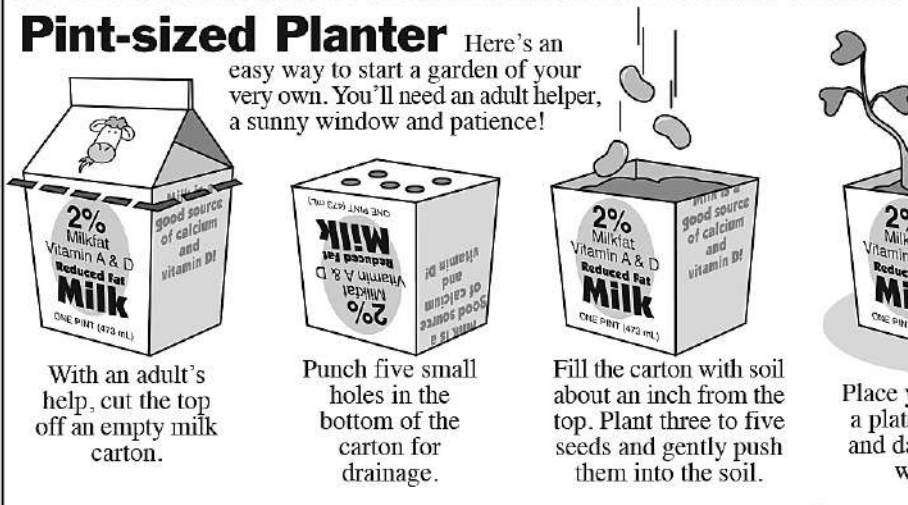

Banana Cubes

Mash up a banana. Spray an ice cube tray with a little non-stick cooking spray. Place the mashed banana into the tray and cover with plastic wrap. Freeze overnight. Dip the frozen cubes in yogurt for a cool treat.

Pint-sized Planter Here's an easy way to start a garden of your very own. You'll need an adult helper, a sunny window and patience!

- With an adult's help, cut the top off an empty milk carton.
- Punch five small holes in the bottom of the carton for drainage.
- Fill the carton with soil about an inch from the top. Plant three to five seeds and gently push them into the soil.
- Place your planter on a plate in a window and dampen the soil with water.

The City of Fremont Requests Community Input on Prospective Minimum Wage Ordinance

The Fremont City Council is currently considering whether or not to establish a citywide ordinance that would increase the minimum wage to $15 per hour at a faster rate than the State mandates. The current statewide minimum wage is $10.50 per hour for small businesses and $11 per hour for large businesses.

In April 2016, Governor Jerry Brown signed legislation that introduced a phased increase in the minimum wage from $10 per hour to $15 per hour over the course of seven years. According to this mandate, small employers with 25 or less employees and large employers with over 25 employees are required to pay their minimum wage employees $15 per hour by 2023 and 2022 respectively.

Following the signing of the State's minimum wage legislation, the Cities Association of Santa Clara County recommended to its members that they adopt local minimum wage ordinances that would fast-track the minimum wage increase to $15 per hour by 2019. To date, eight of the 15 cities in Santa Clara County have adopted local ordinances, targeting 2018 or 2019 for the $15 hourly minimum wage. Among Alameda County's 13 cities, three have adopted minimum wage ordinances targeting $15 per hour by 2018 or 2020.

In Fremont, the proposed minimum wage ordinance would most directly affect employees in occupations such as security guards, food service and retail positions, building and ground cleaning positions, child care workers, and personal care positions. In addition, the 2018 Silicon Valley Index estimates that jobs paying at or close to the minimum wage constitute almost a third of total employment in Silicon Valley.

While adoption of this minimum wage ordinance could help some families remain housed and achieve a higher level of economic self-sufficiency, it also may impact the City's efforts to attract new retail establishments and cause some businesses to increase product prices and decrease hours for minimum wage employees.

The City of Fremont requests input from residents and community stakeholders via an online survey on Fremont Open City Hall, the City's online civic engagement forum. Please visit www.Fremont.gov/OpenCity-HallMinWage to take the survey and provide your feedback by mid-October. The survey is also available in Spanish at www.Fremont.gov/OpenCity-HallMinWageSpanish and in Chinese at www.Fremont.gov/OpenCity-HallMinWageChinese.

California Coastal Cleanup Day is September 15

In honor of the California Coastal Cleanup Day, the City of Fremont will be hosting creek cleanup events at six different locations on Saturday, September 15 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Please join families, friends, coworkers, scout troops, school groups, service clubs, and individuals as they come together to celebrate and share their appreciation of California's fabulous coast and waterways.

If you are interested in participating, please pre-register at www.Fremont.gov/CoastalCleanupDay to guarantee a spot. Please note the City does not allow anyone under the age of 6 to participate in this event.

For more information please contact the Coastal Cleanup Day Coordinator at environment@fremont.gov or 510-494-4570.

Fremont Police Safety Fair to be held September 22

Kick off the first day of fall by attending the Fremont Police Safety Fair on Saturday, September 22 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Members of the Fremont Police Department will showcase police vehicles including their vintage 1958 Chevy, the Fremont Police/Fire mobile command vehicle, traffic motorcycles, SWAT vehicles, and many more. The event will take place in the large parking lot just west of the police campus (between the police building and the Fremont Main Library).

Several public agency partners will be participating, including the City of Fremont Transportation Engineering Division and Fremont Fire Department, Alameda County Sheriff's Office, BART Police, the California Highway Patrol, AC Transit, and the East Bay Regional Parks Police Mounted Unit.

The Police Department's Communications Unit will be co-hosting a dunk tank with Special Olympics Northern California. For a small donation, attendees can attempt to dunk a police department employee to help us raise funds for Special Olympics athletes.

This free event has something for community members of all ages and will feature more than 30 exhibit booths, food, activities, free crime prevention seminars, and giveaways. The first 1,500 attendees will receive a special Fremont Police reusable grocery bag.

Formal presentations are planned and will be conducted by Fremont Police detectives and subject matter experts. Topics will include video camera surveillance; fraud/identity theft; burglaries; and social media safety.

A sampling of vendor exhibits will include US Alarm, RING, NextDoor, Hers Breast Cancer Foundation, Special Olympics Northern California, Washington Hospital, and many more.

If you have any questions about this event, please contact the Fremont Police Department's Community Engagement Unit at 510-790-6740 or email Fremontpolice@Fremont.gov.

Assistance will be provided to those requiring accommodations for disabilities in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Interested persons must request the accommodation at least three (3) working days in advance of the meeting by contacting the Community Engagement Unit.

Watch Movies

Under the Stars in Downtown Fremont

Join the City's Recreation Services Division on Friday, September 21 for the final Summer Movie Under the Stars. Black Panther will be shown after sunset at the Town Fair Plaza in Downtown Fremont on Capitol Avenue and State Street. The movie is PG-13 and is free to attend. Grab some blankets, low beach chairs, and a picnic dinner and enjoy a great flick with family and friends! For more details, visit www.Fremont.gov/MovieNight.

Dragon boats launch for thrilling races

BOAT ASSOCIATION

The 23rd Annual "Northern California International Dragon Boat Festival" returns this fall on Saturday, September 15 and Sunday, September 16 at Oakland's beautiful Lake Merritt, the third year at their new location. Presented by the California Dragon Boat Association (CDBA), audiences will once again be treated to the spectacular fleet of colorful 40-foot dragon boats as they race to the beat of Chinese drums. This year, Kaiser Permanente returns as the festival's premier title sponsor, supporting events that celebrate health and wellness for the Bay Area community in which they serve.

At the heart of the Dragon Boat Festival is the thrill and excitement of the races. Hundreds of teams comprised of thousands of paddlers, ranging from novice teams to competitive caliber racers throughout the U.S. and visiting teams from across the globe, come together for two days of world-class racing. Teams competing this year include participants from all over the United States, Germany, the Netherlands, and Canada. This is the first year a team from Kiel, Germany, will be participating; Kiel is the newest sister city to San Francisco, officially formalized in September 2017.

The event also features a family festival with a vast array of special cultural arts performances, such as lion dancing, martial arts, and Taiko drumming, with food vendors, merchandise booths, and family-friendly activities.

Dragon Land, a designated "kids-zone" pavilion, dedicated to a myriad of programming for families will return this year with a full-scale festival of activities including arts and crafts, games and prizes, obstacle courses, science experiments and more. Sports Zone at Dragon Land powered by Net Generation will also return with sports clinics and the A's, San Jose Earthquakes, and U.S. Tennis Association.

"We are excited to return to Oakland's Lake Merritt for the 23rd Annual Northern California International Dragon Boat Festival," said Linda Cheu, Festival Director for the CDBA. "Lake Merritt is a stunning locale to watch world class racing and for audiences of all ages to enjoy this culturally inspiring and thrilling event."

Dragon boating is a 2,500-year-old sport, originating in Southern China and is one of the fastest growing international team water sport throughout the world. Each year, race festivals are held around the globe in Asia, Australia, Canada, Europe, and the United States, with the Northern California International Dragon Boat Festival as one of the largest festivals in the U.S. A dragon boat team consists of 20 paddlers, a drummer, and a steersperson, and is heavily reliant on timing and teamwork. There are no "stars" in dragon boating, as the success of the boat depends upon how well the team works together.

"Last year's event was a preparatory race for the regional competition in San Diego, so we paddled on teams by age," said Kop. DragonMax took third place in the masters division (paddlers 40+) and one of their women's teams came in second place. This year the DragonMax crew will be represented by four mixed teams totaling 80 members.

"I started dragon boating as part of a corporate team building experience," said Kop. "My corporate team was composed of scientists, who were all used to doing what we thought was best. However, we quickly learned that we all had to paddle together if we hoped to move the boat. I loved the teamwork and soon found a community team to paddle with."

"Through dragon boating I have made many friends – folks that I know I can count on. In addition, it provides me an opportunity to be the best I can be physically," said Kop. "I never thought I would be this active in my 60s. Dragon boating has also provided an opportunity to fulfill my love of travel as I have been able to paddle in many different places in the U.S. and overseas."

Recent high school graduate and Milpitas resident Paolo Casapao has participated in the Dragon Boat Festival every year since it relocated to Lake Merritt.

"I got involved in dragon boat racing back in the summer of 2013, right before I started school at Milpitas High," said Casapao. "I actually ended up joining because my older brother was in the dragon boat club at school and he just would not stop annoying me about dragon boat! But despite having a somewhat forced start into the sport, I grew to love paddling."

Casapao will actually not be paddling in Oakland but steering for Facebook's corporate team, who he has been coaching for the past few weeks. He is also steering for the Kilohana Outrigger Canoe Club, which he said is "extremely exciting because we are fielding a team composed of people who primarily paddle a different discipline!"

Casapao credits paddling for "joyous memories and amazing people" that it has brought into his life. "I joined paddling to become a part of something, and it became a part of me instead," he said. "When I am on the water, it's as if nothing else matters. Of course, as with any sport, there will be hard days during training where you feel excruciating pain and you feel like you have nothing left to give. But there will also be days where you are paddling with your team, and everything feels just right. When you get 20 people on a boat together, doing the same thing at the same time, the boat absolutely flies..."

The festival kicks off with its opening ceremonies on Saturday, September 15 at 11:30 a.m. with a traditional blessing of the festival boats ceremony, a traditional Chinese ceremony accompanying dragon boat races all over the world for thousands of years. Buddhist monks from the Oakland-based Fa Yun Chan Temple community will help awaken the dragons and bless the racing and will joined by lion dancers and the Oakland Interfaith Gospel Choir singing the National Anthem.

All proceeds from the festival benefit the nationally recognized CDBA Youth Dragon Boat program, which promotes teamwork, leadership, cultural awareness, and health and fitness among high school youth through a yearlong dragon boat program offered at Bay Area high schools and youth organizations.

Ronstadt Brothers return with on the border brand of music

SUBMITTED BY BRASK CONCERTS

You have of course heard of Linda Ronstadt. One of five generations of musicians starting in 1899 and continuing to this day, the Ronstadt family has performed around the country and internationally with Linda, Los Lobos, the Dixie Hummingbirds, Muriel Anderson, Big Bad Voodoo Daddy and so many more.

Although Linda is the most recently famous one and her legacy is most certainly not one to shake a stick at, the Ronstadt family's Arizona musical roots were actually sown much earlier when her great-grandfather emigrated to the southwest from Germany in 1841. Keeping the family musical traditions alive, the Ronstadt Brothers - Linda's nephews Michael G. and Petie with cousin Arron Emery - have been performing an assortment of folk, blues, classical, and Latin songs throughout Tucson, Chicago, and Fremont.

The Ronstadt Brothers are returning to Fremont's Mission Coffee on Saturday, September 15 with their "on the border brand of music." "They call it 'Post-modern American West.'

I kind of equate it with Tex-Mex flavors... Border Americana with Rancho sounds," says concert organizer Wayne Brask. "But even that leaves out the classical cello and jazz elements to some of their songs... I mean you don't think of Bob Dylan and the Ronstadts, and yet..."

Petie commented on how their family would always play music in the living room when they got together. Michael G. said that what they have always tried to do on stage was to deliver that feeling of a family gathering, enjoying shared music. Whether it is a house concert or a public venue, music in your living room is a feeling that they want to share. "We feel that way too. welcome to Fremont's family room," says Brask.

Cougars open league competition

Water Polo

SUBMITTED BY
TIMOTHY HESS

The Newark Memorial Cougars water polo team opened its Mission Valley Athletic League season in a dual meet with the Mission San Jose Warriors (Fremont) September 6th. Results were mixed as the Junior Varsity and Varsity girls teams won, but the Varsity boys lost a close game in overtime:
JV Girls: 9-2 (W)
JV Boys: 7-3 (W)
Varsity Girls: 5-4 (W)
Varsity Boys: 12-13 (L in Overtime) GO COUGARS!

Cross Country season begins for Cougars

SUBMITTED BY TIMOTHY HESS

The Newark Memorial Cross Country team opened their season at the Lowell Invitational at Golden Gate Park on September 8th. Angel Martinez and Jessica Novak were the Cougars' lead varsity runners. Cole Kendall, Danny Trabanino, Raiden Romero, Jennifer Tran and Megha Joshi also ran good races to score for the Cougars Varsity. Newark has three of the top eight freshmen (Tad Kawabata, Diego Ochoa, Chance Tokubo) out of over 70 schools (including James Logan (Union City) and Milpitas) at the meets. Newark's Sophomore Boys ranked 6th overall by team score and the Frosh/Soph Girls ranked 9th.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

The Ohlone College women's volleyball team opened the 2018 season with a smash; four straight wins by 3-0 scores. Ohlone swept West Hills and Los Medanos in the Ohlone Classic, and then handled Columbia and Contra Costa in the Alameda Cougar Classic.

Ohlone College Classic Tournament

August 31, 2018
• Outside hitter Sabrina Quilalang led the way against West Hills with 11 kills, six digs, an ace and a block in a 25-17, 25-20, 25-17 victory. Libero Malia Silva led in digs with nine and setter Katie Souza led in assists with 20.

• The Renegades next swept Los Medanos 25-16, 25-16, 25-10. Kylie Jacobs had seven kills, to go with a 0.294 hitting percentage. Libero Elena Webster led in digs with 11. Sophomore setter Katie Souza led in assists with 20, to go with seven digs and an ace.

Cougar Classic Tournament (College of Alameda)

September 1, 2018
• Ohlone Renegades bested Columbia 25-18, 25-20, 25-13. Outside hitter Hailey Amaral tied for the lead in kills with eight, to go with a 0.389 hitting percentage. Souza amassed 21 assists and two aces.

• Ohlone then rolled past Contra Costa 25-9, 25-10, 25-12, as freshman setter Raychelle Rebosura-Castillo had a big game with 19 assists and six aces, both teams' highs.

Renegade Classic Tournament

September 5, 2018
• Folsom Lake College defeats Ohlone College, 3-0 (25-21, 25-22, 25-11).

Sophomore outside hitter Hailey Amaral led in kills (8), hitting percentage (0.316), and service aces (3) to go with 5 digs. Sophomore libero Malia Silva led in digs with 9. Sophomore setter Katie Souza led in assists with 22, to go with 6 digs, 1 service ace, and 1 block

• Folsom Lake College defeats Napa Valley College, 3-0 (25-12, 25-11, 25-7)

• Ohlone College defeats Napa Valley College, 3-0 (25-8, 25-13, 25-13).

Freshmen outside hitter Kayla Valencia led in digs with 8, to go with 5 kills, a hitting percentage of 0.444, and 4 service aces. Freshmen setter Raychelle Rebosura-Castillo led in service aces (6) and assists (16)

DVC Classic Tournament

September 7, 2018
• Ohlone College Defeats Marin (25-17, 25-13, 25-22)
Katie Souza led in service aces (6), assists (25), and hitting percentage (.500) to go with 5 digs.

Sabrina Quilalang led in kills (14) to go with a .310 hitting percentage. Malia Silva led in digs (12).

• Ohlone College Defeats DVC (25-16, 25-18, 25-16)

Katie Souza led in service aces (3) and in assists (23). Sabrina Quilalang led in kills (11) to go along with 4 digs. Hailey Amaral led in hitting percentage (.312) to go with 8 kills. Malia Silva led in digs (11).

WOMEN'S SOCCER

September 1, 2018

• Ohlone opened with a gutsy 2-2 draw with West Hills-Coalinga at Cuesta, and then fell 5-0 to host Cuesta. In the tie, Ohlone battled back twice from one-goal deficits. Yamille Ramirez scored to tie it 1-1 in the 75th minute, and then after West Hills retook the lead six minutes later, Ramirez assisted Jasmine Pacheco in the 86th minute to even it again, 2-2. Ohlone (0-1-2) also battled Solano to a 1-1 draw. Victoria Lothead scored for Ohlone off a Mariah Finnigan assist.

MEN'S SOCCER

August 31, 2018
• The Ohlone men's soccer team opened the season with a 4-0 loss to visiting Butte (2-0). The Renegades (0-1-1) also battled Merritt (1-0-2) to a scoreless draw.

MEN'S WATER POLO

August 31, 2018
• The Renegades (1-1) split games against Big 8 Conference foes in the season-opening Las Positas Mini Tournament, falling 17-12 to American River and beating Santa Rosa 15-11.

Congwright clinches maiden F3 Championship

Auto Racing

SUBMITTED BY CRAIG CONWRIGHT

As an Ambassador for Fremont, California and the USA, 19-year-old Jaden Conwright performed well over a weekend of racing in Ningbo, China. He scored his first win [Race 6, September 2, 2018] and two second place finishes in the 2018 FIA Asian F3 Championship, a new FIA certified series, organized by Top Speed, at Ningbo International Speedpark, Fédération International de l'Automobile (FIA). F3 or Formula 3 automobiles use a production engine block within strict regulations.

Quick throughout the racing schedule, Conwright lined up for the 25-minute Race 6 from pole for the third consecutive time. As the lights went out, Conwright confidently held the lead, As Conwright continued to lead the field, behind him the chasing pack jostled for position.

Driving for the Absolute Racing team, Conwright had a faultless run to the chequered flag take a lights-to-flag victory by 1.532 seconds. Following the race, Conwright spoke about his victory:

“It feels great. The first win is always the most difficult – there’s always so much going through your head. We had good pace all weekend, we had all three pole positions, it was great that we were just finally able take the pole position and turn it into a win.”

With his win, Conwright is now second in the championship standings.

FIA, the sport’s world governing body, began the inaugural F3 regional Asian championship of 15 races – three at each of the five rounds – at Malaysia’s Sepang International Circuit. With completion of the second round at Ningbo, final races of the circuit at Shanghai International Circuit are scheduled for September 21-23, 2018. Jaden will be heading back to China September 17th in preparation for Round 3 and an intense battle on the challenging F1 circuit. With nine races of the inaugural season remaining, the championship remains wide open.

Fremont Featured In IBM's Call For Code Challenge at 42 Silicon Valley

BY CHRISTINA BRIGGS, ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

Taking our smart city initiative to new heights, Fremont was recently featured as the only North American location for IBM's Call for Code Challenge. In partnership with 42 Silicon Valley, the City itself was the subject of this hackathon, which tackled a topic very near and dear to our hearts — disaster preparedness. Innovating through the use of technology is a critical part of any city's emergency preparedness and resiliency agenda. Collaborations like Call for Code allow us to accelerate the adoption of potentially life-saving applications. To learn more, read 42's blog post [below] featuring the highlights of the Call for Code Fremont event: <https://www.42.us.org/call-for-code-challenge-hosted-at-42-silicon-valley/>

Call For Code Challenge @ 42

On August 25th, 2018 the City of Fremont, 42 Silicon Valley, Silicon Valley Insider, and Tulip Conference teamed up with IBM and hosted a hackathon at out how to use AI, Blockchain, Cloud, Data, and IoT technologies most effectively to improve communities' disaster preparedness and resiliency. With 17 big blazes burning across California thus far in 2018, fire damage is likely to set an all-time record. In 2017 estimated losses from California wildfires totaled $10 to $12 billion, we have a unique perspective that can help drive innovation in this field. We are developers, makers and builders who have lived through disasters. We know what is at stake."

Community Support and Industry Collaboration = Innovation

Fremont Mayor Lily Mei kicked off the all-day hackathon with some inspirational words, Fremont Fire Chief Curtis Jacobson spoke and Jeff Youngsma, Fire Battalion Chief, gave insight by sharing experiences and challenges during fires. IBM GM and Chief Developer Advocate Willie Tejada, Silicon Valley Insider's Keith Koo and Tulip Conference's Gee Sivalingam also spoke to the crowd that gathered for the event. The rules, judging, and criteria were reviewed, teams formed and after the projects

Wildfire Detection Team: 42 and Sigfox Hacking House

42 student Obsaa Abdalhalim partnered with Nassim Bettach, Jay Nagdeo, and Kevin Candor from Sigfox's The Hacking House. Their Call for Code project used Sigfox IoT devices to sense the humidity, the temperature, and the weather patterns and give firefighters real-time access to data in areas where there is no data coverage. This way, first responders will be alerted to any fires occurring in the forest before it grows to a visible level. There was more than one category at the hackathon, and the Wildfire Detection Team won first place with The Tech Future Group to develop this project further and placed second overall in the competition. Obsaa shared, "I had an awesome time building something for the greater good. The best products are ones you build with your community in mind."

More about Call For Code Global Initiative

According to Call for Code, "This multi-year global initiative is a rallying cry for developers to use their skills and mastery of 42 Silicon Valley. 42 is proud to announce that this was the only Call for Code Challenge satellite event in North America. This one-day hackathon focused on projects that will create solutions that will improve preparedness during natural disasters and relief during wildfires.

Using Tech to Find Solutions for Natural Disaster Relief

According to IBM developerWorks, "On average, every day natural disasters will directly impact 80,000 people, costing the global economy more than $270 million. What if technology could help improve these figures? That's exactly what Call for Code is setting out to do. It asks developers to work were judged the top five teams presented their projects. One of the judges, Michael Balliet, is the Director of the County of Santa Clara Consumer and Environmental Protection Agency and Department of Environmental Health. The day ended with a closing ceremony and awards. Chief Academic Officer at 42, Gaetan Juvin, said, "When everything is fine we are happy, but when you have a problem you call an emergency response professional like a firefighter. First responders answer the call of duty, anytime we need help they are here for us. Today we want to make an impact on the world by helping those who are always there to help us."

the latest technologies, to create new ones, and to drive positive change across the world through their code. Call for Code brings startup, academic, and enterprise developers together and inspires them to solve the most pressing societal issues of our time." Humanitarian and International organizations, such as the United Nations Human Rights Office and the American Red Cross' International team, will benefit from the inaugural Call for Code Global Prize Event and Concert that will be held in San Francisco on October 29th, which the Wildfire Detection team will attend. Give a day to democracy

SUBMITTED BY SANTA CLARA COUNTY REGISTRAR OF VOTERS

Lady Liberty is coming to town beckoning you to "Give a Day to Democracy." This is a call to action and a recruitment effort, spurred by the agency's need for over 5,000 volunteer poll workers to serve in 849 polling places for the November 6, 2018 General Election.

"We wanted to evoke everyone's love of country and sense of patriotism to serve the voters' needs on Election Day," said Registrar of Voters Shannon Bushey. "Service as a poll worker is a tremendous opportunity to give back to the community and support our democracy's most essential freedom, the right to vote."

Poll workers will be stationed at polling places throughout the County on Election Day to answer procedural questions and otherwise help voters exercise their voting rights.

Bilingual volunteers are needed in 19 different languages, including Spanish, Vietnamese, Cantonese, Mandarin, Taiwanese, Tagalog, Korean, Russian, Farsi, Punjabi, Japanese, Hindi, Telugu, Portuguese, Khmer, Syriac, Tamil, Gujarati and Nepali. English-only volunteers also are needed.

Anyone can be a poll worker as long as they are a U.S. citizen and registered voter, a legal permanent resident 18 or older, or a high school student who is at least 16 years old and has both parental and principal permission. Poll workers will receive a stipend of up to $200 for their services, with a bonus for being bilingual. Training is provided and classes are filling up.

Those interested in volunteering are urged to act immediately by calling the Poll Worker Hotline at 1-408-918-9140, by e-mailing pollworker@rov.sccgov.org, or by applying online at sccvote.org.

organizations will soon bombard the airwaves, literature, mailboxes, internet and footpaths with what are hoped to be catchy and easily remembered slogans. Incumbents will remind citizens of the wonderful job they have done – no matter what the reality – and challengers will ask for their chance to implement change. Through all of this, political parties, large corporations and monied individuals will play either a visible or subtle, behind-the-scenes, role to influence your decisions.

It is important to remember that at the local level, those running for office are supposed to be chosen on a nonpartisan basis, without party preference. Labels of “D” or “R” or anything else should fall a distant second to community priorities. Choice of candidates will hopefully not revolve around the most strident or vocal or incumbency, rather those that will do the best job for you, the voter. In some communities, there is a sense of satisfaction with incumbents – Newark, for instance, has no opposition candidates for city council on their ballot – while in others such as Fremont, council district elections begin this year, heralding a significantly different political landscape. Union City will consider conversion to a charter city format while the ballot in all areas will include competing ideas and personalities for governing councils, boards, propositions and measures.

Want to send a message to your representatives? Even if time and priorities preclude a visit or two to council or board meetings during the year, there is no excuse for not exercising your right to vote either by mail or in person. This is an opportunity to demonstrate, as a responsible adult in our society and model for younger generations, your commitment to our country and way of life. If you are satisfied with the performance of your representatives, this is your chance to affirm that position; if not, the same opportunity is there for you too. Through all of the hubbub, the deciding factor is not necessarily who or what you vote for, but the act of voting.

Your vote should not be guided by Star Chamber endorsements that distribute lists of candidates and positions without a cogent argument of why these people or positions are promoted. Too often, these are blatant attempts to predefine an outcome that may not be in your best interest. However, there are voter booklets plus a wealth of information available to those who choose to take their obligation seriously. Tri-City Voice will publish special editions next month to highlight candidates, measures and propositions with as little editorial bias as possible.

Voting is an honor and privilege too important to leave up to others...

The combination of numbers 9 -1-1 has several meanings. Until the fateful morning of September 11, 2001, we were all programmed to regard that number as an essential lifeline for help. This anniversary marks that designation as its 50th year of operation. Fate has also inscribed that number with another connotation, synonymous with tragedy, fear and ultimate resolve – the coordinated terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center complex in New York City, the Pentagon just outside Washington, D.C. and a thwarted fourth attempt presumably on the White House or Capitol Building on September 11, 2001. The horrendous destruction of that date in property and lives is etched in the memory of all those who lived through those dark days.

As we remember the shock and feelings of rage combined with a determination to defend this country and our way of life, it is appropriate to turn that intense emotion toward the most important role we have as citizens... our right and obligation to elect competent representatives at all levels of government. Public input sought on short-term rentals

SUBMITTED BY ALICE KIM

A public forum to let people voice their ideas or concerns about regulations on short-term rentals being developed in the City of San Leandro is set Monday, September 24. The forum is a follow-up on a 45-day moratorium passed July 23 by the San Leandro City Council on non-hosted short-term rentals in the city. The interim ordinance that is already in place prohibits the short-term rental of homes to paid guests when the owner of the property is not also living on site during their stay. A short-term rental is defined as the rental of any residence to paid guests for fewer than 30 days.

An online survey is available for public feedback that also will be used to help inform the City Council's policy-making process. To provide input online visit the website at <https://www.sanleandro.org/oth/>. The meeting is set for 6 p.m. in the Karp Room at the San Leandro Main Library, 300 Estudillo Ave.

For details, contact the Community Development Department at (510) 577-3325 or visit the informational website at www.sanleandro.org/shorttermrentals.

Elmer Henry Hebert

Elmer Henry Hebert, of Fremont, CA died in his home, surrounded by his family on August 29, 2018. He was 79 years old.

Elmer is survived by his loving wife Patricia, son Ian, adopted daughter Leasa, sister Louise, his five grandchildren, and one step grandchild.

He was born in Madison, IL and had four siblings. At the age of seven, he moved to Timber, MO, to be raised by his grandmother. Moving to California in his twenties, he worked for a short time for Caterpillar and then served in the Army for 2 years. After returning from the Army, he purchased land to open a wrecking yard. He worked for a time at Able Auto Wreckers, but soon after opened Ace Auto Wreckers, which he owned and operated for over forty years. Elmer was always known by all as quiet, loving and hardworking. He never thought twice about dropping everything he was doing to help someone else, without ever thinking about repayment.

Elmer passed away peacefully in his home after battling IPF for 15 months. He will be remembered for his generous spirit, which was an enduring quality that drew others to love him dearly.

A service is scheduled for 12-2pm, Saturday, September 22 at 5012 Brophy Dr, Fremont, CA. All are welcome to attend and celebrate Elmer's life.

Resident of Hayward

July 15, 1944 – September 1, 2018

Pureza Jill Inolino Rotao, died unexpectedly at Stanford Hospital in Palo Alto, CA., September 1, 2018 after surgery complications at the age of 74.

Jill is survived by her daughter, Gebbie Rotao Custodio, son, Jovilo Rotao Custodio, sister Lannie Roberts, niece Sandra Ibuyan, niece, Liziel Roberts, and nephews Carlito I Rotao and Juanito I Rotao.

Jill was born July 15, 1944 in Malinao Aklan, Philippines to Juanito Yacub Rotao and Cristita Inolino Rotao. Jill graduated from the University of Northwestern Visaya College with a degree in Education. She moved to California in the early 1970's. Jill started working for Abbott Laboratories in Mountain View, CA and retired after 15 years of service. In 2012

she was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. But fought and overcame the odds and became a 6 year cancer free survivor.

Jill's passion was to dance the Cha cha and other ballroom style dances. She liked to frequent the casinos and hangout with her friends and family. As a person who related everything with food, she liked dining at places with various types of noodles or raiding buffets. She was an active member of the Malinao Brotherhood Improvement Society of Northern California. (MBIS). Jill had a green thumb, in particularly planting succulents, roses and orchids.

County agriculture revenues

SUBMITTED BY SANTA CLARA COUNTY

According to newly released report, agriculture revenues in Santa Clara County topped $316 million in 2017 posting a two percent increase over revenues from 2016. The report is published annually by the Santa Clara County Consumer and Environmental Protection Agency.

“It is great to see another crop report grow to even higher values than previous years. I like to think of it as a testament to the county’s commitment to our farming community,” said County of Santa Clara Supervisor Mike Wasserman. “Supervisor Cortese and I are excited to continue making a positive impact through the implementation of the Valley Ag Plan.”

The county’s top producers for 2017 were nursery crops ($82,951,000), mushrooms ($74,659,000), lettuce ($17,522,000), spinach ($14,616,000), and bell peppers ($13,264,000). In 2017, 21 different agricultural commodities grown in Santa Clara County exceeded $1,000,000 in crop value.

Commodities that now produce more than a million dollars in revenues are cherries, seed crops and timber. Those that fell from the listing include celery, cut flowers, and hay and grain.

“As Santa Clara County has evolved with Silicon Valley, the county’s agricultural roots continue to thrive and prosper,” said Joe Deviney, Commissioner of Agriculture. “2017 marked a second consecutive year of increased revenues. Our agricultural future is bright. Agriculture from Santa Clara County continues to feed the region and the world.”

The 2017 crop report highlights the unique history of Asian vegetables in Santa Clara County. There are currently about 80 Asian vegetable farms in Santa Clara County that continue to be cultivated and harvested by hand. Most Asian vegetable farms in the county are still family run and small, usually 10 acres or less. Asian vegetables are now the county’s ninth largest revenue producer ($8,876,000).

“I am very proud of our community and respectful of the work done every day. We work so hard and produce many wonderful nutritious vegetables,” said Jenny Li of Shun Fat Nursery. “Most buyers prefer local farm goods rather than importing from outside of the Bay Area. It is important to keep agriculture local.”

The Asian community has played an important role in the valley’s agriculture history, with Gordon Chan, the first Chinese-American president of the Santa Clara Farm Bureau, helping lead the way. Chrysanthemums were among the county’s largest agricultural products through the 1960s, but have now given way to staples including Bok Choy, celery leaf, mustard greens, and more.

“It was delightful to see the Asian Farming Community highlighted in this year’s report,” said County of Santa Clara Supervisor Dave Cortese. “Especially the tribute to Gordon Chan, a truly great leader who contributed so much to the community.”

New House Sharing Program

SUBMITTED BY BRUCE HERMAN

Catholic Charities of Santa Clara County has partnered with the County of Santa Clara to launch a new House Sharing program, providing County residents with more affordable housing options. Catholic Charities—the largest multi-service agency serving individuals and families in need in Santa Clara County for more than 63 years—matches people willing to rent a room in their home with people seeking affordable housing. The agency is the trusted matchmaker to ensure that room providers and renters are screened and compatible.

“We are incredibly excited to be partnering alongside the County of Santa Clara’s Office of Supportive Housing for this much needed housing resource for our community,” said Lindsey Caldwell, Director of Catholic Charities of Santa Clara County Emergency Programs & Housing Services Division. “I believe the House Sharing Program is going to be a great success and will truly assist those in need of housing here in the heart of Silicon Valley.”

The County’s Board of Supervisors approved a contract of $1.5 million with Catholic Charities of Santa Clara County to launch the new House Sharing Program on April 3, 2018. The pilot program has a goal to match 100 households (renters with providers) each year over the next two and a half years.

House Sharing is an arrangement by which two or more unrelated people share a home. This could be a homeowner or renter (House Provider) renting out vacant bedrooms to a person (or persons) seeking housing (Renters). It could also include two or more people renting a home together. Each resident typically has his or her own bedroom but shares the home’s common living areas. Bathrooms may be private or shared, depending on the property. No two house sharing situations are alike; each is tailored to the needs and desires of the people involved.

Priority for rooms will be given to County residents with incomes below the area median income. In particular, seniors and young adults may find this a helpful solution to their housing costs. Seniors who are “house rich but cash poor,” who own their own homes and have vacant rooms, may find this option not just an attractive source of revenue, but also an opportunity for creating new friendships. House Sharing has been successfully implemented in various locations throughout the North Bay, including San Francisco, San Mateo, Marin, and Contra Costa.

Individuals interested in participating in the new House Sharing program should call (408) 325-5134 or email HousesharingSCC@catholiccharitiesscc.org. For more information, please visit www.catholiccharitiesscc.org/house-sharing-home.

Williams reappointed to State Rehabilitation Council

SUBMITTED BY GOVERNOR’S PRESS OFFICE

Marcus Williams, 48, of Union City, has been reappointed [September 7, 2018] to the California State Rehabilitation Council, where he has served since 2016. Williams has been military and disability talent strategy leader at Kaiser Permanente since 2015. He was director of recruiting at Phacil Inc. from 2009 to 2015 and a recruiter at MediaCross Inc. from 2008 to 2009. Williams served active duty in the U.S. Navy from 1988 to 2008. Donors urged to give blood, help blood supply match patient diversity

SUBMITTED BY CHRISTINE WELCH

The American Red Cross urges people of all races and ethnicities to give blood to help ensure a diverse blood supply for patients in need. The vast majority of blood types fall into one of the major ABO groups. However, some blood types are unique to certain racial and ethnic groups, so a diverse blood supply is important to meeting the medical needs of an increasingly diverse patient population.

Twelve-year-old Braden Green required blood transfusions to treat complications from sickle cell disease. “It saved his life, that blood transfusion,” said his mom, Brenda Green. “A blood donation can give a patient another chance at life or an opportunity to get through the day.”

Blood given to patients with rare blood types or those who need repeated transfusions for conditions such as sickle cell disease or thalassemia must be matched very closely. Patients are less likely to have complications from blood donated by someone with a similar racial or ethnic background.

All blood types are needed to ensure that the right blood product is available at the right time for all patients. Make an appointment to donate blood by downloading the free American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

As a thank-you, those who come to donate blood or platelets through September 30, 2018, will receive a coupon via email for a free haircut at participating Sport Clips locations. More information is available at RedCrossBlood.org/sport-clips.

How to donate blood

Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to make an appointment or for more information. A blood donor card or driver’s license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

Volunteers needed

Another way to support the lifesaving mission of the American Red Cross is to become a volunteer transportation specialist and deliver lifesaving blood products to local area hospitals. Volunteer transportation specialists play a very important role in ensuring an ample blood supply for patients in need by transporting blood and blood products. For more information and to apply for a volunteer transportation specialist position, visit rdcrss.org/driver.

Once Upon a Mattress

SUBMITTED BY BOB MILLER

The Douglas Morrisson Theatre (DMT) opens its 2018-19 season with "Once Upon a Mattress," book by Jay Thompson, Dean Fuller and Marshall Barer, music by Mary Rodgers, and lyrics by Marshall Barer. Directed by John Maio, "Once Upon a Mattress" features Megan Bartlett as Princess Winnifred, Alicia von Kugelgen as Queen Aggravain, Michael Sally as King Septimus, Nick Sears as Prince Dauntless, Erin Reiss as Lady Larkin, Matt Skinner as Sir Harry, Mark Enea as The Minstrel, Gregory Lynch as The Wizard, and Jim Rupp at the Jester.

This light-hearted romp is a comic retelling of the classic Hans Christian Andersen story, "The Princess and the Pea." Prince Dauntless is ready to find his princess but Queen Aggravain insists that for any princess to win her son's hand, she must pass a test to prove that she is a genuine princess. Enter Winnifred, an unconventional princess, who hopes to fare better than the 12 princesses before her who tried and failed. The rest of the kingdom, under a strict law enacted by the Queen, must wait to marry until Dauntless has found his bride. In fractured fairytale fashion, this musical pokes fun at its own medieval tropes, and infuses the story with a modern sensibility.

"Once Upon a Mattress" opened off-Broadway in 1959 at the Phoenix Theatre directed by George Abbott and starring newcomer Carol Burnett as Winnifred. The show moved to Broadway in 1960, earning Tony nominations for Best Musical and Best Lead Actress in a Musical for Burnett. It was produced for television first in 1964 and again in 1972 with Burnett reprising her role both times. In the fall of 1995, Dodger Productions brought "Once Upon a Mattress" back to Broadway with Sarah Jessica Parker taking on the role of Winnifred. Burnett appeared in the ABC television version of "Once Upon a Mattress" in 2005, this time as the imposing Queen Aggravain, while the esteemed British comedienne Tracey Ullman stepped into Winnifred's moat-swimming shoes. The production was directed by Tony Award-winning director Kathleen Marshall.

John Maio, an award-winning actor and director, has been seen either on or behind stage throughout the San Francisco Bay Area for the past 40 years. Recent directing credits include "Bullets over Broadway" at Tri-Valley Rep, "Rumors" at Chanticleers, and "Elephant Man" at Altarena. This is his fifth time directing at the Douglas Morrisson Theatre. Maio is a member of the Screen Actors Guild and Actors Equity Association. He was also seen on stage at DMT in "Play It Again, Sam," "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," "The Nerd," "A Few Good Men," "Another Part of the Forest," "Guys & Dolls," "A Flea in Her Ear," "A Christmas Carol," and "The Odd Couple."

"Once Upon a Mattress" runs Thursday, September 13 – Sunday, September 30. Tickets are $10 for the Thursday preview and $29 for other performances. Discounts are available for adults under the age of 30 and over the age of 60, students with ID, youth, H.A.R.D. residents, and groups of 10 or more.

At 1:49 p.m. a man identified by police as Ricardo Romero, 26, of San Francisco, ran away from police and into the trackway at the San Leandro station after being contacted on suspicion of a drinking violation. Officers chased and arrested Romero; who was later booked into the county jail.

Alleged drug dealer nabbed in police sting

SUBMITTED BY
LT. RAJ MAHARAJ,
MILPITAS PD

After a five-month investigation, detectives from the Milpitas Police Department and the Southern Alameda County Major Crimes Task Force closed a narcotics case with the arrest of a 21-year-old Milpitas man.

But the suspect, identified by police as Jeremy Vincent Correa, didn't give up without a fight.

At around 4 p.m. on Thursday, August 30 detectives contacted Correa on the 60 block of South Abbott Avenue in an attempt to take him into custody, but Correa responded by ramming three police vehicles and then fled in a silver 2002 Honda Accord.

As Correa drove through the parking lot of the Milpitas Center, located on South Abbott Avenue, he rear-ended another vehicle while attempting to exit the shopping center. Detectives quickly surrounded and arrested Correa and a 16-year-old female passenger without further incident. A search of the vehicle revealed numerous Xanax pills with an estimated street value of $6,000.

Based on the investigation, detectives executed a search warrant at Correa's Milpitas residence where they found additional Xanax pills, worth an estimated street value of $8,100. They also found a large sum of cash, two firearms, and ammunition and seized it all as evidence.

Correa was booked into the Santa Clara County Jail on suspicion of possessing a firearm while in possession of a controlled substance, possession of a controlled substance for sales, assault with a deadly weapon on a peace officer, evading, and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The 16-year-old girl was cited for possession of a controlled substance for sales and released to her parents.

Anyone who has information about this case is asked to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. Information also can be given anonymously by calling the Crime Tip Hotline at (408) 586-2500 or via the Milpitas Police Department website at: <http://www.ci.milpitas.ca.gov/crim-etip>.

Wednesday, Sept. 5

At 10:16 a.m. Officer Meredith was patrolling the 42600 block of Philadelphia Place looking for two people recently identified as being suspects in a commercial burglary. He eventually located the suspects, along with a male associate. A check showed that all three were on probation. During a search of their vehicles, the 39-year-old male associate was arrested on suspicion of possessing narcotics, possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia. The other two suspects were arrested on suspicion of being involved in a recent commercial burglary at a public storage unit located in the 47200 block of Warm Springs Blvd.

While conducting traffic saturation in the area of I-680 and Auto Mall Parkway, Traffic Sergeant Samayoa made a traffic stop on a blue 2011 Hyundai Accent for a vehicle code violation. The 27-year-old male driver was arrested on two misdemeanor traffic warrants totaling $90,000 and for driving on a suspended license.

Officers were dispatched to what was initially reported as a residential burglary on the 41000 block of Fremont Blvd. A resident of the home reported hearing someone in their unlocked basement which is separate from the main residence. The resident reviewed video surveillance cameras and spotted an unknown man walk out of the basement area and jump over a fence and exiting the property. Responding officers located a 50-year-old man nearby whom the resident identified as the suspect. Officers learned that the suspect was trying to find a place to sleep for the night. He was arrested on suspicion of trespassing.

Investigators need assistance

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

On September 4, 2018, at approximately 3:30 p.m., a male driver in a burgundy Chevy sedan was exiting a shopping center located on the southeast corner of Fremont Blvd. and Blacow Rd (Big O Tires/ Kirby's area). As the vehicle pulled out of the driveway on the north side of the shopping center onto Blacow Rd., the driver struck a male juvenile, in his teens, riding a bicycle. The collision caused the juvenile to fall and hit his head. The juvenile suffered non-life-threatening injuries. The suspect did not stop and fled eastbound on Blacow Rd.

There was a short delay in the police department being notified. When traffic officers responded, they conducted an area canvas however they have very little evidence and no significant leads. Additionally, no video evidence has been located depicting the vehicle and we do not have any license plate information for the suspect vehicle. The suspect and vehicle are described as follows:

Suspect vehicle: Early 2000's burgundy Chevy sedan with unknown damage

Suspect: Hispanic male adult, late 30's with a medium build and short facial hair

The vehicle in the accompanying photo is not the suspect vehicle. It is however very similar to the vehicle that has been described by witnesses.

Investigators are seeking the public's assistance in an effort to solve this case. Anyone with information is asked to please contact Traffic Investigator Jacob Shannon at Jshannon@fremont.gov or call 510-790-6800 x 3 and let dispatchers know you have information about this case. We will also accept anonymous tips. Please text "TIP FremontPD" followed by your message (limit 140 characters) to 888-777 or via the web at <https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/6216337>.

In the early morning hours officers were dispatched to a possible adult abduction in the 500 block of Marina Blvd. Witnesses reported seeing a woman being dragged into a vehicle by a male. The vehicle fled the area at a high rate of speed. Detectives responded and began investigating and eventually located the vehicle in Oakland with both subjects inside. The couple were in a dating relationship and had an argument. There was no abduction. However, a loaded firearm was located inside the vehicle and the male was arrested for possessing the firearm.

At 9 a.m. officers responded to the 200 block of Lorraine Ave. after the resident discovered someone entered his home and stole five firearms. The resident was home at the time and heard the suspect(s) inside but thought it was another family member. The resident later learned that his step-mother's purse was stolen during an auto burglary while she was at the gym earlier in the morning. The suspects from that burglary used the keys found in the purse to enter the home and take the items.

Around 9 a.m. officers responded to the area of Williams Street and the railroad tracks where a northbound Amtrak train struck and killed a pedestrian walking on the tracks. The case is being investigated by the Union Pacific Railroad Police Department.

Saturday, Sept. 1

Around 10 p.m. officers were dispatched to Bayfair Mall on a report of a person burglarizing a vehicle. The victim discovered his vehicle being burglarized and began to chase the suspect. The suspect produced a BB gun pistol and shot at the victim several times, striking his vehicle. The suspect then ran into a Starbucks coffee store and hid in the bathroom. Officers arrived, evacuated the store and eventually took the 13-year-old male suspect into custody. The BB gun pistol was also located.

Monday, Sept. 3

Around 4:30 p.m. officer were dispatched to Fashion Fare next to Bayfair Mall on the report of a street robbery. The victim stated that she was walking in the shopping center when the suspect walked behind her and forcibly grabbed her purse. The suspect then ran to an awaiting vehicle and fled the area. The suspects were described as black male adults driving a green older model Nissan Maxima.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Kam Shing Lam
A Petition for Probate has been filed by Joseph Lam in the Superior Court of California, County of Alameda.

The Petition for Probate requests that Joseph Lam be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on 09/26/18 at 9:31 a.m. in Dept. 201 located at 2120 Martin Luther King Jr. Way, Berkeley, CA 94704.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. YOUSUFZAI Recorded: 9/28/2005 as Instrument No. 2005417108 of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of ALAMEDA County, California; Date of Sale: 9/27/2018 at 9:00 AM Place of Sale: At the Scottish Rite Center, 1547 Lakeside Dr., Oakland, CA 94612 in the 3rd Floor Lodge and Banquet Room Amount of unpaid balance and other charges: $947,883.61 The purported property address is: 2977 MIRALOMA WAY, UNION CITY, CA 94587 Assessor's Parcel No.: 463-0099-092 NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-12-538885-VF. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any inaccuracy of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney, if you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. Eagles fly over Rebels

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

It has been a long with road with lots of ups and downs, but the American Eagles (Fremont) varsity football team finally ended their 12-game losing streak with a 20-15 win over the San Lorenzo Rebels on September 8th. The road to victory wasn't easy as the Rebels rebounded from a 14-7 deficit at the end of the half to surge ahead 15-12 in the third quarter. The Eagles, however, put together a superb offensive drive in the last quarter and, with 2:46 left on the clock, scored to regain the lead. A determined defensive effort by the Eagles shut the door on a response and the Eagles finished with the victory.

Park It Coastal Cleanup

Every year at this time, there's a call for volunteers to help remove trash and recyclables from shoreline parks, lakes and along creeks throughout California. Coastal Cleanup 2018 is from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday, September 15. East Bay Regional Park District will participate at nine regional parklands.

Volunteers should bring a refillable water bottle, sunscreen, gloves, a hat, and a bucket for trash. All volunteers should wear close-toed shoes, and layered clothing appropriate for the weather. The park district will provide snacks, water and trash bags. An adult should accompany children under 16 years old.

The nine coastal cleanup locations in the regional parks are the Encinal boat ramp and Crown Beach in Alameda, Big Break in Oakley, Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore, Hayward Shoreline, Martin Luther King Jr. Regional Shoreline in Oakland, Point Isabel and Point Pinole in Richmond, and Radke Martinez Regional Shoreline in Martinez.

Registration is required. For registration, call 888-327-2757.

Select option 2 and refer to program 22194 for Encinal, 22197 for Big Break, 22176 for Crown Beach, 22177 for Del Valle, 22182 for Hayward, 22187 for King Shoreline, 22188 for Point Isabel, 22190 for Point Pinole, and 22183 for Martinez. For general information, call 510-544-2229.

It may seem early to be announcing the Haunted Railroad program in October at Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont, but the organizers tell me that tickets are sold in advance beginning Sept. 15, and they get snapped up quickly.

The Haunted Railroad is a train ride at Ardenwood geared for families with children under 12, during which live actors play silly characters, and there are Halloween-themed inflatables along the way. There's nothing scary about it. All children must be with an adult, and for safety reasons, each child under 3 must be with a separate adult.

The train runs from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, Oct. 19, 20, 26 and 27. Times are 7 to 9 p.m. on Sundays, Oct. 21 and 28.

Admission is $10 for ages 3 and older, free for children 2 and under. Parking is free. Tickets are sold in advance beginning at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 15 on www.eventbrite.com. Search for "Haunted Train."

The event is a fundraiser for the nonprofit railroad museum at Ardenwood. For information, visit www.spccr.org and www.facebook.com/spccrmuseum. Ardenwood is at 34600 Ardenwood Boulevard, just north of Highway 84 in Fremont. For general information, call 510-544-2797.

Wildlife viewing is the objective of a three-mile walk from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, September 16, led by naturalist Michael Charnofsky, starting at Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda. The group will view a seal colony, discuss wildlife conservation issues, and learn to look for the unexpected. Binoculars will be available to borrow. And from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 19, it's Talk Like a Pirate Day" at Crab Cove. Drop by the visitor center for grog (cider), crafts, buried treasure and over-the-top theatricality.

Crab Cove is located at 1252 McKay Ave. off Alameda's Central Avenue. For information, call 510-544-3187.

There's a labyrinth at the bottom of an old quarry pit at Sibley Volcanic Regional Preserve in Oakland. Naturalist Michael Charnofsky and local artist Helena Mazzariello will lead an easy three-mile walk to view it from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday, September 23. Helena built the labyrinth. She'll talk about labyrinth mystiques and myths, and disclose how she secretly created the one at Sibley.

The hike is free, designed for ages 10 and older, and registration is required. Call 888-327-2757, select option 2 and refer to program number 22441.

Naturalist Jenna Scimeca will wax eloquent about bees during a program from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday, September 16 at the Little Farm in Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley.

Beeswax is important to both bees and humans. Visitors can make a candle and sample local honey. Then from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., Jenna will show off the Little Farm's resident chickens, help visitors grind some corn, and feed the birds a snack.

The Little Farm is at the north end of Tilden's Central Park Drive. For information, call 510-544-2233.

Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch will host a mine open house from noon to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, September 16. It's a chance to take a free, self-guided tour of the former silica sand mine, starting at Hazel-Atlas Portal and ending at Greathouse Portal. Park staff and volunteers will be stationed along the way to point out interesting features. For safety reasons, the mine tour is open only to ages seven and older. There will be aboveground activities for younger children.

Black Diamond Mines is located at the end of Somersville Road, 3 1/2 miles south of Highway 4. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. For information, call 888-327-2757, ext. 2750.

The history of Big Break Regional Shoreline from river to wetland to farm to park is the topic of a program from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, September 16 at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakland.

Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Oakley's Main Street. For information, call 888-327-2757, ext. 3050.

There's always lots to do in the regional parks. Check out the website, www.cbarks.org for complete listings.

Union Sanitary District Centennial Stories

USD Goes Back to School with Tri-City Students

USD Environmental Outreach Representative Doug Dattawalker talks to fifth-grade students

SUBMITTED BY UNION SANITARY DISTRICT

Fall is finally in the air, and students in our service area are back in school. While pupils are gearing up for their studies, Union Sanitary District (USD) is going "Back to School" too – we visit fifth-grade classrooms to get students thinking about water pollution and how to stop it at its source.

The sanitary sewer system flows to our treatment plant before being discharged to San Francisco Bay. This allows USD to remove solids, metals, and other toxins coming from homes, businesses and industries. The storm drain system flows directly to local creeks and the Bay untreated. To raise public awareness of this difference, we offer free school outreach presentations to fifth-grade classrooms throughout our service area.

Students learn how each of us can help prevent pollution from entering both the sanitary sewer and the storm drain. They receive a 60-minute multi-media presentation that includes story-telling, video, a hands-on experiment and fun giveaways. USD's program is popular, with over 100 presentations given at Tri-City schools during each of the last three years.

As a follow-up to our presentations, classrooms are offered the opportunity to tour our wastewater treatment plant and hear about our processes. Students get to see first-hand how wastewater is turned into clean water before it is released to the environment. Our favorite bonus from these tours is to hear the response from parent chaperones who attend with the kids – their most frequent comment is "I had no idea what you do is so complex!"

"I love the questions kids ask during my classroom visits," says Doug Dattawalker, USD's Environmental Outreach Representative. "They're very inquisitive and creative, asking questions like 'Why don't we shoot waste into space?' It's challenging and rewarding to explore why an idea may or may not be a solution at this point in time. I enjoy encouraging them to be one of the people who discovers solutions for protecting the environment in the years ahead."

USD has a lengthy history of helping students understand how our essential services support our communities and introducing them to the many types of careers available in our industry. We've hosted chemistry, biology, environmental science, and engineering students from local high schools and colleges as part of our commitment to educating future customers and inspiring tomorrow's water professionals.

You don't have to go back to school to learn more about the District. We offer plant tours to the community every quarter. Our next tour is on Monday, November 5, 2018 - call (510) 477-7500 to sign up. Community organizations can also schedule group plant tours by calling to reserve a date. As we celebrate our centennial year of service to the Tri-Cities, we uphold our tradition of welcoming customers to visit our facility and discover fascinating details about the work we do.

Volunteers needed to help clear shoreline

SUBMITTED BY ALICE KIM

In conjunction with the California Coastal Cleanup Day, the City of San Leandro is inviting residents to participate in its annual Shoreline Cleanup Event along the city's shoreline on Saturday, September 15.

The event is set for 8 a.m. to noon and participants asked to meet in one of the two staging areas: the Monarch Bay Drive Bridge (at the end of Marina Park) and the Heron Bay entrance to the shoreline trail at the end of Lewelling Boulevard. The Heron Bay entrance has limited onsite parking. Participants are encouraged to ride bikes or walk as parking is expected to be limited at Marina Park.

All necessary equipment for the cleanup will be provided with Alameda County Industries donating dumpsters for debris disposal. Drinking water also will be available; participants are asked to bring their reusable water containers.

Students from the local high schools including KIPP Academy in San Lorenzo this year will receive certificates of service for participation. The KIPP Academy, the Washington Manor Middle School, Boy Scout Troop 722, and Girl Scouts of Northern California will all be participating in the San Leandro Shoreline cleanup.

"Keeping our shoreline safe and clean, and helping to protect sensitive habitat areas found throughout the area is an important community effort, said San Leandro Mayor Pauline Cutter. "Volunteers who participate help protect treasured public resources to be enjoyed by the community for many years to come. Thank you to everyone participating in the 2018 San Leandro Shoreline Cleanup."

The San Leandro shoreline cleanup is part of the broader California Coastal Cleanup Day that is held the third Saturday each September. Now in its 34th year, the event includes cleanup efforts throughout California's coastal communities that beautify and protect the coastline.

For more information, to volunteer, or pre-register groups of 10 or more, contact Marina Manager Delmarie Snodgrass at (510) 577-3490.

Swalwell appears in documentary film

SUBMITTED BY JOSH RICHMAN

Rep. Eric Swalwell, (D-Dublin) ranking member of the CIA Subcommittee of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, participated in the new documentary film "Active Measures" detailing Russia's interference in America's 2016 presidential election and its long-standing ties to President Donald Trump.

Swalwell was interviewed about his role and findings in the House Intelligence Committee's investigation of Russia's interference on behalf of the Trump campaign. The film was released August 31.

"I'm happy to have helped in the creation of this important film detailing the urgent need for us to protect our democracy," Swalwell said.

Swalwell is co-author of H.R. 356, the Protecting Our Democracy Act, which would create an independent, bipartisan-appointed commission to examine foreign interference in the 2016 election and develop recommendations for preventing such interference in the future.

Swalwell represents California's District 15, which includes most of eastern Alameda County including Castro Valley, Dublin, Fremont, Hayward, Livermore, Pleasanton, Sunol, Union City, and parts of Contra Costa County.

Police Safety Fair

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT PD

Members of the Fremont Police Department (FPD) will be kicking off the first day of fall by hosting a free Safety Fair for the community on Saturday, September 22. The family-friendly event will feature more than 30 exhibits, food, activities, free crime prevention seminars, police department building tours and giveaways. The first 1,500 attendees will receive a special Fremont Police reusable grocery bag.

Among special highlights at the fair will be a showcase of various police vehicles including a vintage 1958 Chevy, the Fremont Police/Fire mobile command vehicle, traffic motorcycles, SWAT vehicles and many more.

Representatives from several public agencies also will be on hand to answer questions from the public and share community information. Agencies include: the City of Fremont's Transportation Engineering Division and Fire Department, BART Police, the California Highway Patrol, AC Transit and the East Bay Regional Parks Police Mounted Unit.

Entertainment will include a Dunk Tank co-hosted by the FPD Communications Unit with Special Olympics Northern California. For a small donation, people can attempt to dunk a police department employee to help us raise funds for Special Olympic athletes.

The safety fair is set for 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the parking lot between the Fremont Police Station at 2000 Stevenson Blvd. and the Fremont Main Library. Admission is free.

Blood-testing startup Theranos said to be closing

AP WIRE SERVICE

The once-heralded blood-testing startup Theranos is shutting down, according to a media report.

Theranos was unable to sell itself and is now looking to pay unsecured creditors its remaining cash of about $5 million in the upcoming months, according to an email The Wall Street Journal obtained that CEO David Taylor sent to shareholders.

The announcement comes nearly three months after Theranos founder and former CEO Elizabeth Holmes and former Chief Operating Officer Ramesh Balwani were charged with criminal fraud. Prosecutors allege Holmes and Balwani deliberately misled investors, policymakers and the public about the accuracy of Theranos' blood-testing technologies going back to at least 2013. If convicted, they could face prison sentences that would keep them behind bars for the rest of their lives, and total fines of $2.75 million each.

Holmes, once considered a wunderkind in Silicon Valley, had pitched Theranos' technology as a cheaper way to run dozens of blood tests. Holmes said Theranos had discovered a new way of doing blood testing, one able to do dozens of tests with just a prick of a finger and few droplets of blood. A notoriously secretive company, Theranos shared very little about its blood-testing machine, nicknamed Edison, with the public or medical community. Holmes said she was inspired to start the company in response to her fear of needles.

She carefully crafted her image as well, wearing almost entirely black turtleneck sweaters that earned her the moniker in Silicon Valley as "the next Steve Jobs."

Investors bought what Holmes was selling and invested hundreds of millions of dollars in the company. At one time, Theranos was worth more than $10 billion and Holmes was the youngest self-made female billionaire.

But an investigation by The Wall Street Journal two years ago found that Theranos' technology was inaccurate at best, and that the Palo Alto, California-based company was using routine blood-testing equipment for the vast majority of its tests. The story raised concerns about the accuracy of Theranos' blood testing technology, which put patients at risk of having conditions either misdiagnosed or ignored.

The Journal's investigation marked the beginning of the end of Theranos. Walgreens ended its blood-testing partnership with the company, and the Department of Health and Human Services effectively banned Theranos in 2016 from doing any blood testing work.

The Securities and Exchange Commission brought civil fraud charges against Holmes and Balwani in March. Holmes settled with the SEC, agreeing to pay $500,000 in fines and penalties. Balwani is fighting the charges.

Theranos laid off most of its staff earlier this year.

Cortese teams up with Al Gore's The Climate Reality Project

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

Santa Clara County has teamed up with former U.S. Vice President Al Gore's The Climate Reality Project to further engage counties in the County Climate Coalition, which was started by Santa Clara County Supervisor Dave Cortese's office last year.

The County Climate Coalition is a collection of counties throughout the United States that have agreed to uphold their promise toward meeting the United States' commitment under the UN Paris Climate Accord through results-oriented strategies to reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

Earlier this year the county approved moving to 100% renewable electric power, which will reduce GHG emissions annually by an estimated 8,100 metric tons of equivalent carbon dioxide (MTCO_{2e}). This shift is expected to happen by the end of 2019.

Together, the two groups will collaborate on a national campaign engaging leaders across the country to build support for the County Climate Coalition, which currently includes counties in California, Colorado, New Jersey, Utah and Maryland.

Health data portal launched

SUBMITTED BY BRITT EHRHARDT

The County of Santa Clara Public Health Department announces the launch of its Open Data Portal, an online tool for county residents to access health data, broken down by city and neighborhood. The portal hosts data on over 100 health topics – from diabetes and opioids to vegetable consumption and seatbelt use – with the latest local metrics and demographics, such as race, ethnicity and income.

The portal provides all county residents – nonprofits, government agencies, engaged citizens, researchers, students, and members of the media – with searchable and downloadable data, encouraging residents to make changes that support the health and wellbeing of all county residents. It also aligns with the County's commitment to transparency, innovation, and public health leadership. Explore the Open Data Portal at sccphd.org/healthdata.

"Good data is required to make informed public health decisions, and the Open Data Portal helps all of us understand factors that contribute to our health," said Public Health Department Director and County Health Officer Dr. Sara Cody. "By making our county's health data accessible to anyone with an internet connection, we put power in the hands of our community and many partners to help us improve health."

"Data at the neighborhood level helps programs work better and smarter to address health inequities in our county," said Santa Clara County Supervisor Ken Yeager.

The portal features over 10 story maps that combine narrative text with graphics and maps. Each illustrates the burden of select health issues in the county and how the County is addressing these problems, including influenza, tuberculosis, teen births, suicide, opioids, physical activity, and many more.

Additional topics with data broken down by neighborhood and city include fast food consumption, bullying due to race and/or sexual orientation, e-cigarette use, physical activity, and carrying a gun on school property. A number of "How-To" videos help visitors navigate and explore the data.

Data was collected by the Public Health Department, or gathered from other reputable sources, such as the State of California, federal government, and nonprofit sources. To learn more about how the Public Health Department serves the people who live, work, study and play in Santa Clara County, please visit our website: sccphd.org, and follow us on Facebook facebook.com/sccpublichealth and Instagram @SCC_Publi

California Coastal Cleanup Day

In honor of the California Coastal Cleanup Day, the City of Fremont will be hosting creek cleanup events at six different locations on Saturday, September 15 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Please join families, friends, coworkers, scout troops, school groups, service clubs, and individuals as they come together to celebrate and share their appreciation of California's fabulous coast and waterways. If you are interested in participating, please pre-register at www.Fremont.gov/Coastal-CleanupDay to guarantee a spot. Please note the City does not allow anyone under the age of 6 to participate in this event.

For more information please contact the Coastal Cleanup Day Coordinator at environment@fremont.gov or 510-494-4570.

Fremont Police Safety Fair

Kick off the first day of fall by attending the Fremont Police Safety Fair on Saturday, September 22 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Members of the Fremont Police Department will showcase police vehicles including their vintage 1958 Chevy, the City of Fremont Police/Fire mobile command vehicle, traffic motorcycles, SWAT vehicles, and many more. The event will take place in the large parking lot just west of the police campus (between the police building and the Fremont Main Library).

Several public agency partners will be participating, including the City of Fremont Transportation Engineering Division and Fremont Fire Department, Alameda County Sheriff's Office, BART Police, the California Highway Patrol, AC Transit, and the East Bay Regional Parks Police Mounted Unit. The Police Department's Communications Unit will be co-hosting a dunk tank with Special Olympics Northern California. For a small donation, attendees can attempt to dunk a police department employee to help raise funds for Special Olympics athletes.

This free event has something for community members of all ages and will feature more than 30 exhibit booths, food, activities, free crime prevention seminars, and giveaways. The first 1,500 attendees will receive a special Fremont Police reusable grocery bag. Formal presentations are planned and will be conducted by Fremont Police detectives and subject matter experts. Topics will include video camera surveillance; fraud/identity theft; burglaries; and social media safety.

A sampling of vendor exhibits will include US Alarm, RING, NextDoor, Hers Breast Cancer Foundation, Special Olympics Northern California, Washington Hospital, and many more.

If you have any questions about this event, please contact the Fremont Police Department's Community Engagement Unit at 510-790-6740 or email Fremontpolice@Fremont.gov.

Assistance will be provided to those requiring accommodations for disabilities in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Interested persons must request the accommodation at least three (3) working days in advance of the meeting by contacting the Community Engagement Unit.

Fixit Clinic

City of Fremont residents with small broken items like bicycles, lamps, and toasters are invited to the next Fremont Fixit Clinic on September 29 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fremont Main Library on 2400 Stevenson Blvd.

Open to all ages, these "pop-up" events encourage residents to bring broken items to disassemble, and hopefully repair, with guidance from knowledgeable Fixit Clinic coaches. A Fixit Clinic is a hands-on troubleshooting and discovery workshop and is a great opportunity for anyone who has never tried troubleshooting or fixing something on their own before. Attendees will participate in each stage of the repair so they leave with new skills and a sense that reuse and repair beats the landfill any day.

Event founder Peter Mui and the volunteer Fixit Clinic coaches generously donate their time and tools to the program, and more volunteers are always needed. Those who are interested can sign up at <https://goo.gl/kwVNIv>.

Fixit Clinics rotate through the branch libraries of the Alameda County Library System (www.aclibrary.org). Information on upcoming Northern California and San Francisco Bay Area Fixit Clinics is typically posted to Facebook at www.facebook.com/pg/Fixit-Clinic/events.

National Car Seat Check on September 29

The Fremont Police Department, in partnership with Safe Kids Alameda County, Alameda County EMS, Habitot Children's Museum, and AAA, is sponsoring a free car seat checkup event at the Fremont Police Department, located at 2000 Stevenson Blvd. in Fremont. All installations will be conducted by nationally certified technicians. For more information visit www.Fremontpolice.org/CarSeat.

Free Home Energy Workshop

Did you know your monthly energy bill will look different starting in November? To find out how it's changing, attend the Future of Your Energy Bill workshop on Sunday, September 30 from 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Fremont Main Library, 2400 Stevenson Blvd. You'll learn the answers to the following questions:

- Who is East Bay Community Energy (EBCE) and why will they be providing electricity instead of PG&E?
- What is a Time-of-Use (TOU) rate and why does it matter?
- How can I reduce my environmental impact while still saving money?
- What programs are available to help make my home healthier and cozier?

Attendees will learn about EBCE, Fremont's new community choice energy program that will supply cleaner, greener electricity to residents starting in November. They will also learn about home rebate programs, City of Fremont sustainability initiatives, and Bay Area SunShares, a limited-time discount program for installing rooftop solar panels and purchasing a zero emission vehicle.

All attendees will receive a canvas tote bag and a LED bulb. The workshop is free, but space is limited. Register today at www.Fremont.gov/HomeEnergy-Workshop. This workshop is sponsored by StopWaste.

Water Conservation and Median Upgrades Project

The City of Fremont's Water Conservation and Median Upgrades Project is in full swing along Mowry Avenue. Expect single lane closures in each direction between Farwell and Logan drives through approximately December 7, 2018, on the following days and times: Monday through Thursdays, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Fridays, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Please note the construction schedule is subject to change. Also, please obey all temporary traffic control signs around the work zones.

The Water Conservation and Median Upgrades Project is part of the City's multi-pronged approach to address re-occurring drought cycles, aging and inefficient irrigation infrastructure, and limited resources for maintenance. The project will improve the median landscape with new shrubs and trees, paving, and ornamental boulders—all of which will reduce water usage and overall maintenance requirements in the median, and provide enhanced beautification along a significant entry point into the city.

As the project moves forward, the City of Fremont will work with the construction firm to minimize lane closures and limit the inconvenience to the greatest degree possible. We appreciate your patience and cooperation.

Video about Local Rent Review Ordinance

Attention all landlords, tenants, and property managers. The City of Fremont's Rent Review Ordinance became effective on January 1, 2018 and provides a process for renters and landlords to come together and resolve disputes around rent increases in a neutral setting. The Ordinance covers all residential rental units in Fremont, including single family homes and condominiums.

View our new video online at www.Fremont.gov/RentReviewVideo that explains the City's rent review process. For complete details about the Ordinance visit www.Fremont.gov/RentReview.

For additional questions, or to request a rent review, contact 510-733-4945 or RentReview@fremont.gov.

September is National Senior Center Month

National Senior Center Month is celebrated every year in September. It's a wonderful opportunity for the Fremont Senior Center to showcase its valuable programs, activities, and services offered. It's also a great time to promote a positive image of aging in our community.

These events showcase just a small percentage of what the Fremont Senior Center offers. We are inclusive, fun, energetic and welcoming. We offer a great lunch every day that is prepared on sight by our culinary trained chef. It's a great way to get out and socialize with your fellow seniors.

To find out more about membership, benefits, and events, please stop by the Senior Center at 40086 Paseo Padre Pkwy. in Fremont, visit www.Fremont.gov/SeniorCenter, or call at 510-790-6600.

Sewing Circle

SUBMITTED BY RUTH SHARMILA

Do you want to learn or practice sewing? There's no time like the present, and the Newark Library can help. The library is hosting three Sewing Circle workshops led by experienced seamstresses on Saturdays, Sept. 22, Oct. 13 and Oct. 27. For beginners, the library will provide everything needed for participants to get started on sewing a drawstring bag.

Those who already have some basic sewing skills are encouraged to bring their own project to work on. The library will provide sewing machines and other equipment, or participants may bring their own equipment.

The two-hour workshops will meet at 2 p.m. at the Newark Library. There is no fee, but because space is limited, advance registration is required and can be made by calling the library's Information Desk at (510) 284-0677 or in person at during library hours. Registrations also can be made by visiting the library's website at www.aclibrary.org/newark, and then searching under the "Coming Events" link and following the prompts.

Youth and Family Center receives Drug-Free Communities funding

SUBMITTED BY TOVE BEATTY

Eden Youth and Family Center (EYFC) is now a two-time recipient of an estimated $625,000 in federal funds to provide substance abuse prevention, education, and advocacy services in south Hayward. Over the next five years (2018-2023), the Drug-Free Communities (DFC) grant enables the nonprofit to continue and expand the work which began with the previous award for the years 2013-2018.

The funding comes from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Act (SAMHSA), signed by the President last week. EYFC received one of 730 awards granted nationwide to diverse coalitions of community representatives addressing the opioid epidemic and other substance use crises.

"We are thrilled to be able to continue this important work and to advocate for policies and programs which contribute to creating a drug-free community for our youth," said Executive Director Karen Halfon. Board President Gail Steele echoed, "This is fantastic news for Hayward and enables the center to continue its 40-year mission to serve and empower Eden-area families."

With the first DFC award, EYFC organized and coordinated the Hayward Coalition for Healthy Youth (HCHY), comprised of local youth, parents, and representatives from schools, youth-oriented services, law enforcement, local government, businesses, healthcare, drug treatment/rehabilitation and faith-based sectors. HCHY co-hosted the first annual Alameda County Cannabis Summit in 2017, calling needed attention to the community's obligation to educate youth about cannabis use risks now that it is legal for California adults.

DFC funding also enabled the forming of a very active Youth Advisory Council (YAC), which has led community and business education efforts to prevent alcohol and tobacco sales to underage individuals. YAC also developed a public service video highlighting the deadly risks of opioid use and abuse, and is lobbying regional governments for uniform "no smoking or vaping" signage in public parks.

The DFC award dovetails with the agency's other youth-focused programming, including the Computer Clubhouse, a technology-rich after-school learning environment; Project New Start Tattoo Removal Program, providing case-management and low-cost removal of unwanted tattoos; and complementary, expanded substance-use education and prevention programming as part of the Hayward Promise Neighborhoods coalition, which also focuses on providing supportive services to the most vulnerable of south Hayward residents.

For more information about EYFC, visit www.eyfconline.org or call Karen Halfon at (510) 244-7149.
