LILRARIAN'S REPORT

TO THE HONORABLE GEORGE W. CLARKE,

Governor of Iowa and President of the Board of Trustees of the Iowa State Library.

SIR: I have the honor to make report for the biennial period beginning the first day of July, 1914, and the thirtieth day of June, 1916.

BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY.

At the date of my last report, June 30, 1914, there were of record in the General Library and the Law Department (including the Legislative Reference Bureau), 130,946 volumes. Actual count, however, revealed an error in the grand total. The correct number was 130,938. At this date (the 30th of June, 1916), there are of record in these departments, 142,841 volumes. The increase during the last biennial period shows 6,086 additions to the General Library, 2,529 to the Law Department and 3,288 to the Legislative Reference Bureau of that department.

The Library Consolidation law provides for a separate report from the Curator of the Historical Department, hence the additions to, and the total of, books in that department are not included in this report, though the financial report of that department is included in this report with that of the other two departments.

THE PROPOSED MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

I am able to report only slight progress during the last biennial period toward the creation of a Medical Department. The proposed department is, in my judgment, of so much importance to the state and the future of the medical profession in Iowa, that a restatement of the progress made toward that end, and of the necessary means to that end, transcends, for the time being, any other report I have to make. Many years ago, acting under instruction from the Board,

I made an attempt at a collection of medical works which should be of real service to the profession, using the works then in the library as a nucleus.

With a very small appropriation for the purchase of books and compelled to respond to the pressing needs of the Law and General Library, I have had little money left for the purchase of medical works, and, as a consequence, few additions have latterly been made to the nucleus of the proposed medical library.

Several years ago, the State Library Board directed the librarian to take counsel with the Polk County Medical Society and procure from that society a recommendation as to the kind of books which would be most helpful to the profession. This was done, and a committee from that society recommended two long sets, one of which, the Proceedings of the London Pathological Society from Volume 1 (1848), to Volume 58 (1907), was purchased. The later volumes and current volumes as issued will be bought as soon as funds are supplied for the purchase of medical works. The other set, "Virchow's Archives" (printed only in German), was at the time deemed too costly for purchase, and is now withdrawn from the market, owing to the war blockade. Later, full sets of the two leading medical periodicals in this country, the Journal of the American Medical Association and the New York Medical Journal, were bought in numbers and bound in volumes. These have been continued down to date.

Meantime, through the efforts and influence of the American Library Association, a system of inter-library loans have become general. A few scholarly physicians and surgeons in Iowa have since availed themselves of the system through the medium of the State Library, and have been enabled to borrow for brief periods books and periodicals from the John Crerar Library of Chicago, and from the Surgeon-General's Library at Washington. In time, the cameragraph was invented, and the John Crerar Library was thus enabled to photograph at small expense and mail to me the desired pages of certain books too valuable, and periodicals too much in use, to be loaned outright.

What the Surgeon-General's Library and the John Crerar Library are able, within reasonable limitations, to do for the practitioners of the country, the State Library of Iowa should be able to do for the physicians and surgeons of Iowa.

A study of the card-system of a leading surgeon of Des Moines, Dr. Oliver J. Fay, with the files made by his secretary of the photographed pages thus acquired, suggested a plan which, submitted to Judge Deemer, chairman of the Book Committee of the State Library Board, and to a committee of the State Medical Society, seemed so feasible that conferences were afterwards held by Judge Deemer and myself with Doctors Hill and Pearson, representing the State Medical Society, and a general plan of co-operation was agreed upon.

In anticipation of the creation of a Medical Department, the Library Board set apart as the nucleus of the proposed medical library a room on the second floor of the Historical Building opening into the General Library, and requested the Executive Council to purchase steel book-stacks for the room. The Council promptly ordered the stacks and same have been installed.

The custodians of the library of Drake University's Medical School, recently closed, turned over to the State Library a collection numbering about 1,400 medical works. Drs. Hill, Dorr, Criley, Fairchild and others have donated several hundred volumes. These, with those already in the library, make a strong nucleus for the proposed department.

The State Medical Society has for the past four years had a standing committee to co-operate with a standing committee of the State Library Board. After several conferences with this committee and an examination by the committee of the room set apart for the medical library including the shelving and the books placed upon the shelves in their order as classified, a detailed working agreement was reached by the two committees as to the best means for securing the desired end; namely: the creation of a medical library which shall ultimately prove as helpful to the physicians and surgeons of the state and to students of medicine and surgery as is the present Law Department to the courts, the bar and students of the law.

My hope, shared by members of both committees mentioned, and by the State Medical Society, is that the state will make it possible for even the most remote physician and surgeon to avail himself of the resources of the library, both by the loan of books and by the photographing of pages of books and periodicals not subject to loan. The state is in possession of a cameragraph, purchased by the Executive Council in response to the request and recommendation of several departments of the state, including the State Library, thus facilitating the reproduction of pages as proposed.

The committee representing the State Medical Society joined with the State Library Board in asking the 36th General Assembly to create a relatively small book-fund for the proposed department, and—still more important—to provide the State Library with a trained medical assistant who shall have the same personal supervision over his department as the Curator of the Historical Department and the Law Librarian now have over their respective departments.

The State Medical Society, more in earnest than two years ago, will again unite with the State Library Board in urging the measure.

The proposed Medical Librarian, far from being a mere caretaker and book-handler, should be one who has the advantage of an education in medicine and surgery, and is familiar with the languages in which the literature of the profession finds expression. He should also be more or less familiar with library science, including the art of cataloging. The plan will fail unless a salary is provided which will enable the librarian to offer to such an expert a salary sufficient to induce him to take up the task with a purpose to make it the work of a lifetime. I know of no other position in the library field which, from the very start, will call for quite as much of judgment and training, and can promise quite as much of substantial achievement.

The plan agreed upon promises to solve a problem which the state libraries that aim to cover the general field of library activities have thus far failed to solve. Iowa should lead the way to this desired end. I know, from the interest shown in "the Iowa idea," as outlined by me at a recent conference of state librarians in Washington, D. C., that other states will be eager to follow Iowa's lead.

The State Medical Society and the State Library Board would, I have no doubt, be extremely grateful to find, next January, that your excellency had deemed this project of sufficient importance to warrant an emphatic renewal of your recommendation in 1915, urging upon the 37th General Assembly the passage of an act, creating a Medical Department of the State Library and the position of Medical Librarian.

The bill introduced in the last general assembly reads as follows:

Section 1. That a medical department be established in the state library, to be under the direction of the state librarian and under the control of the board of trustees of the state library and historical department, to which department shall be turned over all the medical and surgical works and periodicals now in the miscellaneous department of the state library, and all the medical and surgical works and periodicals already contributed, or to be contributed, to the state library, the same to be catalogued and shelved in suitable rooms in connection with the miscellaneous department of the state library, and made available for reference use by physicians and surgeons and students of medicines and surgery, and kindred sciences, and to the general public.

Section 2. There shall be annually appropriated from any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) for the use of the medical department of the state library, the money to be expended under the direction of the board of trustees of the state library and historical department, in the purchase of books and periodicals deemed necessary to the upbuilding of said department, and the purchase and transmission of material and information to the physicians and surgeons of the state.

Section 3. There shall be annually appropriated, from any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of two thousand four hundred dollars ($2,400.00) as a salary for an expert librarian trained in medicine and surgery and in the languages in which medical and surgical literature is most commonly written and published.

Section 4. No preference shall ever be given to any school or schools of medicine but all shall be treated alike; and books, periodicals and pamphlets shall be secured for any and every legally recognized school without discrimination.

The only change I have made in the original is the reduction of the medical assistant's salary from $2,500 to $2,400, to meet the only objection made to the bill when considered in committee. I would respectfully urge a recommendation of the bill to the incoming General Assembly.

THE GENERAL LIBRARY.

There is a steady growth in the activities of the State's General Library—or, as it is named in the law, the Miscellaneous Department of the State Library. There has been a consequent increase in appreciation of the public service it is rendering.

It has been our constant aim and effort so to correlate the library activities of the state that all the interests of Iowa may be the most effectively served by each of the several forces behind those activities. To that end we have in operation a system of loans which reaches every part of Iowa. A visitor, happening in on the first floor of the General Library and seeing only a few persons standing in front of the book-stacks or seated at the desks, or studying the card-catalog, might easily underestimate the service rendered the public by this department. At the time of his visit there are going on about him activities of which he has no intimation.

Students and scholars from all parts of the state who come to the Capitol to avail themselves of the state's splendid reference library are given free access to the book shelves and are permitted to group their choice of books about them on the second floor—or the first floor if it best suits their convenience—and thus uninterruptedly pursue their researches and prepare their papers, addresses, etc., etc.

Libraries, clubs and individuals, seeking information and suggestive material on subjects outside the range of their own local libraries, are supplied with such material mainly through the medium of the Traveling Library system, successfully operated by the Iowa Library Commission. This Commission freely draws on the General Library for books not on its shelves, thus enabling the State Library to avail itself of the splendid system of the Traveling Library in reaching all parts of the state. The many and varied requests for loans which come directly to the State Librarian from all parts of Iowa meet with prompt response, the librarian in some cases sending the book direct to local libraries, but in most cases availing himself of the Traveling Library system as an expeditious and safe means of communication. In either case, the borrower pays the book-rate charges both ways.

The State University, the State Teachers' College, the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, through their respective librarians, freely draw on the State Library for loans of books not in their respective collections.

Thus, as it will be seen, the State Library is not, as some erroneously regard it, exclusively for legislative, departmental and local use, but is, rather, a collection of books available to every citizen of Iowa.

An impression, retained by some from pioneer days, and by others carried from states that have not kept pace with Iowa in library progress, is that the State Library is no more than a collection of law books and public documents. It is becoming increasingly well known that Iowa's great reference library, far from being confined to books of direct service to legislators, executive officers, lawyers and courts, practically covers the whole range of inquiry and research, including general and special encyclopedias, the great world philosophies and religions, science, theoretical and applied, belle lettres, including standard essays, poetry and fiction, and world history including individual and collective biography.

The extent to which those who know its wealth of information and suggestion are availing themselves of the State Library's resources, and of the facilities of the correlated Traveling Library for the delivery of books to local libraries and other organizations, may be inferred by a brief reference to some few of the many subjects on which information has but recently been requested. Very recent letters to the State Librarian reveal, among a variety of other demands, calls for works on woman's activities in the trades and crafts; the nation's growing commerce; the race question; music as a factor in civilization; the present status of capital punishment; preparedness; the minimum wage; Burns, Mozart, Michael Angelo; toasts for banquet; best American authors; social Russia; biology; "bugs, birds and such things;" the psychology of advertising; ship subsidy; government ownership; good roads; prohibition; journalism as a factor in education; moving pictures; modern fiction; woman suffrage; community interests; Iowa literature; aerial navigation; the European war; immigration; Iowa history and literature; mistreatment of the Indians; the new patriotism; the Red Cross; our relations with South America; effect of books on life; Irish literature and folk-lore; designs for porches; Mexico; the new poetry; the drama; Balkan literature; amateur photography; domestic science; farm management; child labor; Browning; athletics; Shakespeare's humor; preparedness in the home, etc., etc.

In the list of book-accessions to the General Library during the biennial period covered by this report are many increasingly valuable out-of-print books purchased in this country and Great Britain, also several rare art works and not a few new editions to standard works. Selecting, almost at random, from the list, I would call attention to the following works:

- Watt—Bibliotheca Britannica, 4v.
- Catholic Encyclopedia, 16v.
- Papers and Discussions of the American Society of Civil Engineers, v. 38, making 38 continuous volumes in the library.
- Sombart—The Jews and Modern Civilization.
- Thomas—The Improvement of Rivers, 2v.
- American Institute of Mining Engineers, v. 37, making 37 continuous volumes in the library.
- National Conference on Housing, 1913.

The State Library in its several departments has gradually developed into an information bureau, and is constantly responding to inquiries as to who wrote certain lines, poems, essays, etc.; who uttered certain sentiments, or opinions; what is the correct version of certain loosely quoted verse or prose; what is the best encyclopedia, or the best, and cheapest, edition of some standard author, or the publisher and price of some desired work, etc., etc.

Referred to the Law Department and its Legislative Reference Bureau are various requests for copies of legal opinions, sections of the code, etc.; for information as to the trend of certain legislation in other states; for an epitome, or the full text, of a decision rendered; for press opinions on legislative trends, presidential or gubernatorial recommendations, etc., etc.

Requests for information as to state and local history, biography, family genealogies, etc., when not readily answered, are referred to the State's Historical Department, ably presided over by Mr. E.

R. Harlan, where they receive prompt attention and all available information.

In all three departments the executive heads are ably assisted by librarians of experience and ability and imbued with enthusiastic desire to serve the public. I should add that, in addition to my general duties, I give direct personal supervision to the General Library.

THE LAW AND LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE.

The state has reason to be proud of its Law Library and Legislative Bureau. Through the untiring and well-directed efforts of Mr. A. J. Small, who for a score of years has been in charge of the Law Department of the State Library, a small and fragmentary collection of works classified in a general way as Law and Documents, through moderately increased legislative appropriations and the wise counsel and co-operation of the State Library Board, has been slowly and steadily developed along well-chosen lines, until, now, it is almost a certainty that any want of the courts, or of legislators, lawyers, students of the law or journalists can be supplied by the department. With the reports, statutes and codes of all the states and territories, and of most of the English-speaking governments, and with thousands of volumes on the main subjects covered by the practice, and thousands more on the literature of the law—to all of which several thousands of volumes are annually added—Iowa's law library has few equals in the relative completeness of its equipment and in the systematic cataloging and shelving of its books.

COLLECTION OF THE LIBRARY'S PERIODICALS.

I would call especial attention to an appended list of periodicals in the State Library. This list includes the additions of many years and many valuable sets of periodicals seldom found together in any similar collection. On entering upon my work as State Librarian, in 1898, one of the many helpful suggestions I received from my associate of the Historical Department, the late Charles Aldrich, was that I make the library's then valuable but very incomplete collection of English and American periodicals one of the great periodical collections in the country. To that end, I have for eighteen years been working, from time to time adding many complete sets and many more incomplete sets to be filled in by subsequent purchases of volumes and numbers. Most of these sets have been picked up at comparatively small expense, from auction sales and through catalogues of second-hand dealers at home and abroad. Not a few of these sets now command prices from ten to twenty times their original cost to the state. In not a few instances, single volumes, and even single numbers, now command higher prices than complete sets cost the library a few years ago. There may be other state libraries that surpass the Iowa Library in the number and value of their periodical collections: but I am not aware of the fact. Aside from the Library of Congress and the John Crerar Library of Chicago I know of no other collection more valuable.

The preparation of a separate budget in response to your request, as to the specific needs of the State Library, makes unnecessary a detailed statement of the working conditions of the departments. The law directing a separate biennial report from the Curator of the Historical Department, with the separate request sent by you to the Curator, leaves to me only the task of reporting as to the needs of the General Library and those of the Law Department. Such detailed statement accompanies this report. It will be observed that I ask no increase in appropriations for these departments. I only ask a small appropriation for the erection of a Medical Department, thereby enabling me to utilize the several thousand medical works already on hand but of little present avail to the profession, and, at the same time, with a comparatively small outlay, enabling me to avail myself of a great opportunity for service to the one learned profession as yet inadequately served by the state and, through the members of that profession, affording the state a rare opportunity for service to the general public.

With profound appreciation of the sympathy and support accorded me by yourself in your dual capacity as Governor and as ex-officio President of my Board; also by every member of the Library Board over which you preside; by all my library associates and by the staff of the State Historical Department, and the members and staff of the Iowa Library Commission, this general report, with the detailed financial report and report of book purchases which follow, is respectfully submitted.
