2019 brings 'Varsity' opportunity for Ramstein

Leadership of the "World's Best Wing" focused on the accomplishments and challenges of 2018 to help prepare for future trials and triumphs of 2019 at multiple all-calls here Jan. 25.

"This is my favorite commander's call of the year," said Brig. Gen. Mark R. August, 86th Airlift Wing commander. "This is the only time the Chief and I get the opportunity to stop for a moment and reflect on the previous year. We'll discuss events we accomplished this year and what our vision for the future is."

Heisman Trophy winner visits Ramstein, shares mental health story

Heisman Trophy winner, former NFL player, U.S. Olympian, and Mixed Martial Artist Herschel Walker came to the Kaiserslautern Military Community Jan. 9-10, to visit with KMC members and share his struggles with mental health.

Herschel's story focused on his discovery that he suffered from Dissociative Identity Disorder.

Herschel credits the day he went to a behavioral health hospital as the best thing that ever happened to him. He encouraged those at a town hall he hosted to seek the help they need.

"Everyone knows the glory of Herschel Walker, but not everyone knows the story," he told a group of KMC members.

Herschel suffered from physical and emotional childhood trauma at the hands of his peers. He was consistently taunted and beaten up because he was overweight and suffered from a debilitating stutter. Finally, in eighth grade he had enough.

August and Chief Master Sgt. Ernesto Rendon, 86th AW command chief master sergeant, highlighted the Wing's five priorities, painting each with examples of how dedicated Airmen make the mission happen.

"We take care of our folks," said Rendon. "Whether you're active duty, a civilian supporting the mission, or families of our troops, you allow us to do what we do," said Rendon. "We have to give you more."

The 86th AW conducts and supports missions from the arctic to the equator, said August. The wing supported several joint-exercises around the globe, including countries such as Morocco, Greece, Iceland, and Romania.

Missions cited by leadership were a high-profile evacuations from down-range and the return of a pastor held in captivity for two years, all done with little to no-notice.

"Our mission is often thankless, but when you realize that almost every single MAJCOM in the U.S. Air Force is on this base, and every single person here does something to support them," he said. "I can't think of a better honor than being a gateway to the world."

August said thank you to his troops for remaining professional and tirelessly supporting approximately 100 tenant units located on Ramstein.

Throughout the all-call, August and Rendon focused on their goal to hone leadership within the wing, and to support Airmen and their families.

"The goal moving forward is to continue to improve leadership development and training for officers, civilians and enlisted members," said August.

Leadership used the all-call to highlight the wings attention to detail, innovation, and continued successful partnerships with allies, while expressing their ambitions for 2019.

"I really want to build on the 2018 successes," said August. "We have to shift our mentality and our thought process from base support to a contingency focus."

In an effort to enhance wartime capabilities down to the individual Airmen, the 86th AW is scheduled to conduct a series of exercises, "Operation Varsity" throughout the year. These exercises will strengthen integration with base tenants and geographically separated units, as well as provide leadership opportunities at every level.

"2018 was an amazing year," added August. "It was great for the Chief and I to show up and become a part of your organization. There is no shortage of demand for the skills and expertise the 86th AW has. 2019 will be a year where opportunities will be available to sharpen and employ those skills."

U.S. Air Force Chief Master Sgt. Ernesto Rendon, 86th Airlift Wing command chief master sergeant, speaks to Airmen at an all-call on Ramstein Air Base, Jan. 25. Rendon spoke about honing leadership within the wing and supporting Airmen and their families.

He began working out every day. He read out loud to himself in front of his mirror to correct his stutter. He made himself sit up front and participate in class.

He got stronger. He became more confident. His grades went up, his social standing improved and years later he became the all-around consensus for the greatest college football running back of all time, according to the National Football Foundation.

But that growth triggered something else.

"I developed this invisible persona,"

Herschel said. "I swore that no one would ever beat me up again. No one would ever tell me I was retarded again. I didn't realize what I was doing until I got help."

Herschel then recalled the day he discovered that dark and painful side of himself.

"My ex-wife told me, 'Herschel, I'm afraid you're going to hurt me,'" he said as he choked up. "And to be honest, I probably would have. All I talked about was hurting people."

This was the moment when Herschel knew he needed to get help. He worked with his ex-wife, his pastor, and his doctor to find a hospital that could help him on his road through recovery.

He checked himself into a hospital in California and began treatment.

Herschel learned how to deal and cope with his mental illness through counseling and group therapy sessions, he said.

"I needed to learn how to love myself," Herschel said. "I needed to be able to look into a mirror and say, 'I love Herschel Walker.'"

Herschel encouraged attendees to not be ashamed of seeking help for mental illness.

"You all are the best we have," Herschel said. "It's not about LeBron James or Starbucks. You are the best America has. Please, for your friends and your families, do not be afraid or ashamed to seek help."

In addition to hosting a town hall, Herschel also conducted two meet and greets and an open workout session at the North Side Gym on Ramstein. During this session he led a group of KMC members in one of the workouts he has used since high school.

The 86th Airlift Wing has several options for KMC members to seek help with mental illness. Chaplains assigned to the wing can be reached at: 06371-47-6168. The 86th Medical Group offers mental health counseling, their phone number is: 06371-46-2273.

Air Force makes updates to enlisted evaluation policies

by the Secretary of the Air Force Public Affairs

The Air Force recently updated evaluation policies for enlisted Airmen, refining the process and requirements for enlisted performance reports.

The revised policies are in response to feedback from the field and are geared towards increasing flexibility for commanders and empowering performance within the enlisted corps.

"We are continuously making strides to reform our talent management system, including evaluating updates we previously made to the Enlisted Evaluation System," said Lt. Gen. Brian Kelly, Air Force deputy chief of staff for manpower, personnel, and services. "Our focus is on making our system more agile, more responsive, simpler and more transparent to better meet the needs of our Airmen and our Air Force."

The updated policies will impact almost every active duty enlisted Airman as well as those in the Guard and Reserve.

One of the more significant updates covers a long and widely debated subject. Under the new policy senior noncommissioned officers who complete an associate's degree or "higher level degree from a nationally or regionally accredited academic institution" are eligible for promotion and senior rater stratification or endorsement consideration.

Prior to this update, only degrees obtained from the Community College of the Air Force could be considered for senior rater stratification and endorsement. Airmen should ensure completed degrees are updated in their personnel records in the Military Personnel Data System.

Another update focuses on equitability and streamlines the stratification process by removing ineligible Airmen from the senior rater stratification pool. The previous policy allowed Airmen with an approved high year of tenure, or HYT, retirement date to be factored into the senior rater's endorsement allocations. For Airmen reaching HYT, performance evaluations are also now considered optional.

An additional update authorizes the senior enlisted leader, previously only an advisor, to be a voting member of the Enlisted Forced Distribution Panel. In addition, the policy affords large units the ability to use the Enlisted Force Distribution Panel process. If a designated large unit chooses not to do so, the unit commander must publish and disseminate alternate procedures no later than the accounting date for each evaluation cycle to ensure transparency.

In yet another update, commanders now have authority to designate any number of non-rated days if they determine an Airman "faced personal hardships during the reporting period." The option provides commanders the agility to reflect periods of extenuating circumstances on annual evaluations without negatively impacting the Airman.

Air Force senior leaders also made recommendations regarding referral evaluations. Currently, a report is automatically referred when "met some, but not all expectations" is selected on the AF Forms 910 and 911. To allow raters the opportunity to identify and document potential areas of improvement, these ratings will no longer be considered a mandatory referral enlisted performance report. This particular policy change will take effect in conjunction with the staff sergeant static close out date on Jan. 31.

Chief Master Sgt. of the Air Force Kaleth O. Wright said the change to referral evaluation requirements allows raters to provide Airmen with more honest, realistic feedback of their performance while, at the same time, allowing Airmen more room to improve.

"Under the previous policy, if we set 100 expectations for an Airman and they met or exceeded 99 of them but fell short on one, in essence we were saying they should be removed from promotion consideration," Wright said. "That doesn't align with our vision of talent management. We want supervisors and command teams to have the option to make decisions that make sense for our Airmen, tailored to each individual situation."

Wright added that providing this decision space for commanders aligns with the Air Force's effort to revitalize squadrons and empower leaders.

The changes will appear in upcoming revisions of Air Force Instructions 36-2606, Officer and Enlisted Evaluation Systems and 36-2502, Enlisted Airman Promotion/Demotion Programs.

Door-to-door salesmen

Living in Europe you may come across door-to-door salesmen offering to sell a wide variety of items ranging from artwork to produce. If you decide to utilize these services, the 569th U.S. Forces Police Squadron urges you to take caution with your transactions. Make sure the price of the goods is clearly established. If you are using a credit/debit card, ensure you double check the transaction total before signing any receipts – read over the entire receipt! If you do not feel comfortable using your credit/debit card, request to use cash instead.

KMC Post Office new website

The new KMC Postal Operations Share-Point site is ready for CAC users (Active Duty/ Contractor/Civilians) to use for In-processing, Mail Hold or Forwards, Out-Processing, and Volunteer Opportunities at the Ramstein (North/South) and Kapaun Post Offices. The site can be found through the USAFE Share-Point portal. Questions? Contact the Northside, Southside, or Kapaun Post Office Customer Service sections.

Parking discs needed

In certain parking lots on Ramstein Air Base, display of a parking disc is required. The maximum allowable time a car may remain in these lots is posted; the driver must set the disc to the arrival time and make it visible. The following are some parking lots where discs are required; MOMS, Ramstein Officers' Club, the commissary, the library and the community center. Parking without displaying a disc or remaining past the allowed time could result in a citation.

Visitor Control Center process and hours

The Ramstein Visitor Control Center now issues passes with a scannable barcode. These passes are valid for one to three days and may be used at any KMC Air Force or KMC Army installation. Any request longer than three days will require customers to receive a long-term pass. Customers should understand with the process, waiting times may be longer than usual.

The VCC opens at 6 a.m. and closes at 10 p.m., seven days a week. After hours, customers may still sign in guests at the west gate. The sponsor must be registered in IACS to sign in visitors. Furthermore, ID card holders who forget their ID may also be searched in IACS and be granted base access.

Units needed for blood drives

The Armed Services Blood Bank Center - Europe is looking for units who would like to host blood drives for the military community. For details, call DSN 590-5585 or 06371-9464-5885 to speak to a recruiter.

Bicycle safety

Riders are recommended to wear highly visible outer garments during daylight hours and outer garments containing retro-reflective material during hours of darkness or reduced visibility.

Bicycle operators and passengers on U.S. Forces installations must wear an approved helmet properly fastened under the chin. Helmets must meet the standards set by the American National Standards Institute, the Snell Memorial Foundation Standards, the Institut für Zweiradsicherheit e.V., or the Economic Commission of Europe for bicycle helmets.

Bicycles ridden during hours of darkness must have a headlight that emits a white light and a taillight that emits a red light.

Bicycles must have standard brakes that, when applied, safely stop the bicycle. Wheels must have two reflectors mounted 180 degrees apart on the spokes. Pedals must have reflectors designed and placed to be visible from the front and rear of the bicycle during darkness.

THE HOUSING HYPE

Parking in Base Housing:

Friendly reminder, parking is only permitted in marked areas, not on sidewalks or crosswalks. Be courteous of your neighbors, only park in your assigned spot for your home.

PCSing soon?

Tips for a smooth move: The Housing Office requires a 40-day advanced notice of intent to terminate government quarters. Call the Housing Office at 489-6672 or CIV 0631-536-6672 to schedule an in-person appointment.

Please follow these guidelines:

- » Provide the Housing Office with 4 sets of orders and port call date, (if known).
- » At the appointment, the Housing Team will schedule a Pre and Final inspection of your quarters.

- » If you do not have orders or a port call date, only the Pre-Inspection will be scheduled. A separate appointment will be necessary to schedule the Final Inspection.
- » Total of 3-5 TLA days will be authorized based on the port call date.
- » Contact the Furnishings Management Section to arrange pick-up of duration and delivery of loaner furniture at DSN 489-6001 or CIV 0631-536-6001.

- » Once the Final Inspection is completed, any necessary clearance document will be signed for your out-processing.
- » After the Final Inspection, provide the Housing Office with the paid hotel receipt, statement of non-availability (if you are staying off-base) and your orders to file your TLA claim for reimbursement.
- » Lastly, the KMC Housing Team wishes you and your family safe travels!

Three Airmen assigned to the 86th Airlift Wing Chapel received the honor of being Ramstein's Airlifters of the Week, Jan. 17.

The 86th AW Commander, Brig. Gen. Mark R. August, recognized Capt. Alex Johnson, 86th AW chaplain; Master Sgt. Norma Johnson, 86th AW readiness and training flight chief; and Staff Sgt. Jacob Johnson, 86th AW non-commissioned officer in charge of education and training, for their efforts in achieving the 86th AW's mission.

"Your work here at the chapel allows all of our Airmen to work harder, smarter, and succeed at our goal of being the 'World's Best Wing,'" August said. "Never underestimate the value and need your occupation provides our base, not only to spiritual resiliency, but resiliency as a whole."

The 86th AW chapel team provides religious and counseling services to the more than 21,000 Team Ramstein members.

All three Airmen expressed their thanks and credited their success to the entire chapel team as a whole.

The 86th Airlift Wing command team surprised an 86th Maintenance Group Airman on Ramstein Air Base, Jan. 24.

Staff Sgt. Justin Cupit, 86th MXG facility manager, had no idea Brig. Gen.

Mark R. August, 86th AW commander, and Chief Master Sgt. Ernesto Rendon, 86th AW command chief, were on scene to coin him for his efforts.

As the 86th MXG facility manager, Cupit is in charge of 44 buildings worth more than $60 million. Cupit works with 86th MXG leadership to oversee the status of building construction projects.

“What you do here matters,” said

August. “Your work with the 86th MXG is noticed and appreciated. Without maintainers, without buildings for maintenance, we would cease to be effective, we would cease to be the World’s Best Wing.”

His dedication to his duties reassures flightline and support maintenance personnel, so that the 86th MXG is capable of generating world-class airpower.

Cupit thanked his leadership and coworkers for their mentorship and expressed his gratitude saying, “This wouldn’t have been possible without you.”

Norovirus outbreak impacts US military facilities in Germany

by Michelle Thum
Regional Health Command Europe

Multiple U.S. military installations in Germany are experiencing an increase in norovirus cases, as a result of significant norovirus activity being reported throughout Germany.

Norovirus is the official name for a group of viruses that cause the stomach flu. Healthcare and childcare facilities are particularly susceptible to these viruses due to the ease of transmission, the small amount of infective material needed to spread the disease, the short incubation period, and the fact that the virus can live in the environment for a long time unless adequately cleaned.

“Symptoms of norovirus include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and stomach cramping. Those symptoms typically come on very quickly but usually only last for one or two days.” said Col. Rodney Coldren, Chief of Public Health Command Europe’s Preventive Medicine Services.

Symptoms of norovirus include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and stomach cramping. Those symptoms typically come on very quickly but usually only last for one or two days. Courtesy photo

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control the greatest health risk from norovirus is severe dehydration, especially in young children, the elderly, and people with other illnesses. Symptoms of severe dehydration include decreased urination or very dark urine, rapid breathing, rapid heartbeat, dizziness, lack of energy and fainting. Parents of children in diapers may notice a decrease in the number of wet diapers, although this may be hard to notice with frequent diarrhea.

“If you or a family member are experiencing norovirus symptoms, drink plenty of fluids to prevent dehydration,” Coldren said. “If dehydration occurs, seek care from your primary care provider or local Emergency Room immediately.”

Because norovirus is more persistent than other viral causes of gastrointestinal infections, Coldren recommends staying home from work or school for at least 48 hours following any episode of vomiting or diarrhea to prevent the spread of the infection.

There is no vaccine to prevent norovirus and because antibiotics fight bacterial infections, not viruses, they are ineffective in treating the illness, according to the CDC.

People can become infected after consuming foods or liquids contaminated with norovirus, having direct contact with an infected individual or touching surfaces containing the virus. Symptoms can appear as early as twelve hours after exposure to norovirus, according to the CDC.

5 Tips to prevent norovirus from spreading

1. Practice proper hand hygiene — use soap and water as alcohol-based hand sanitizers alone do not kill norovirus
2. Wash fruits and vegetables and cook seafood thoroughly
3. When you are sick, do not prepare food or care for others
4. Clean and disinfect contaminated surfaces
5. Wash laundry thoroughly

No vehicle left behind: Dispose of inoperable autos properly

Abandoned vehicles can mean administrative actions for Soldiers and civilian employees. Dispose of inoperable vehicles properly before relocating to another duty station.

U.S. Army Garrison Rheinland-Pfalz

When you're relocating back to the States or to another overseas assignment, you'll leave friends, coworkers and your community behind – but one thing you shouldn't leave behind is an inoperable vehicle.

That's right. You'll have to find a home for your broken down car, because it's your responsibility to take care of your U.S. Army Europe-registered vehicle before you depart your duty station, said Staff Sgt. Robert Brech, a Traffic Management and Collision Investigations supervisor with the U.S. Army Garrison Rheinland-Pfalz Directorate of Emergency Services.

"Soldiers, civilian employees and contractors with Individual Logistical Support are required to outprocess vehicle registration prior to departing the garrison," Brech said. "The main purpose is to provide proof they disposed of their vehicle in an authorized manner."

Last quarter, DES disposed of 72 inoperable vehicles from garrison installations – which is not free.

Within the Baumholder area, towing fees are $100, $125 within the Kaiserslautern Military Community and $275 outside of the KMC (Germersheim Army Depot and Coleman Work Site).

"If a vehicle in the USAG RP footprint is not claimed by its owner, the vehicle is released to Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Baumholder Auto Skills Parts Yard to be sold for parts or scrap," Brech explained. "If a vehicle is claimed by the owner, the individual must show proof of payment for towing to FMWR before it can be released. They also have to provide proof of a current USAREUR vehicle registration."

Drivers with inoperable vehicles have three options:

1. Repair. Inoperable vehicles should be repaired in a timely manner, have a non-operational registration and not present an abandoned appearance. It is strongly recommended to leave the non-operational registration document visible in the windshield. Non-operational registrations are only valid for 90 calendar days, and vehicle owners are authorized two, back-to-back non-operational registrations. A third non-operational registration is authorized with approval by the garrison provost marshal.
2. Sell. If an owner sells a vehicle to another person with ILS, the vehicle must have a valid one- or two-year registration. The garrison provost marshal may authorize the transfer of vehicles having a temporary or non-operational registration with approval by both the seller's and buyer's commanders. Vehicles may be sold to another person without ILS or agency as well. This includes local-national civilians, vehicle dealerships or junk yards. However, the sale must receive clearance through the U.S. Forces Customs Office before it can be finalized.
3. Donate. Owners can donate their vehicles to the FMWR Auto Skills Parts Yard in Baumholder or the Ramstein Auto Recycling Center. The donated vehicle will be sold as parts or, if they only require minor repairs, will be resold to another person.

Although there is no "Leave it" option, unfortunately, that is what some Soldiers have done in the past – but it comes at a price, Brech said.

"Soldiers can face punishment under Article 92 (Failure to Obey a General Order) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice for improperly disposing of a vehicle and owning an unregistered vehicle," he said. "Civilian employees and contractors with ILS under the Status of Forces Agreement can face administrative actions under Army in Europe Regulation 27-9, 'Misconduct by Civilians,' for the same offenses."

Both Soldiers and civilians can have their USAREUR driver's licenses suspended for 90 calendar days for having three or more offenses of owning an unregistered vehicle within a five year period.

Improperly disposing of a vehicle is the primary offense used in law enforcement reports for abandoned vehicles. Owning an unregistered vehicle is a secondary offense people receive when they have a suspected abandoned vehicle that is impounded without a valid registration. This is also the offense individuals are cited for if their registration expires and a military police patrol confiscates their license plates, he said.

Although sometimes Soldiers and civilian employees are required to leave Germany with short notice, they still must take care of their responsibilities prior to departing.

"If an owner is unable to ship his or her vehicle or dispose of it in an authorized manner before departing, the individual can appoint an agent to do so for them. This is done at any of the vehicle registration offices with the owner and agent present. This does not, however, relieve the owner of any legal responsibilities for the vehicle. Owners who appoint agents need to ensure they are people they can trust to carry out their plan for the vehicle in a timely manner," Brech advised.

Vehicles suspected of being abandoned can be reported to the Kaiserslautern Law Enforcement Desk at DSN 489-7070 or commercial at 0631-536-7070; the Baumholder Law Enforcement Desk at DSN 531-2677 or commercial at 0611-143-531-2677.

Taking the time to dispose of your inoperable vehicle will free up valuable parking spaces on our installations, while avoiding administrative actions for owners in the future, said Darryel Johnson, USAG RP DES deputy director.

"Properly disposing of your privately-owned vehicle before you move keeps you from being subject to UCMJ or Civilian Misconduct action at your new duty station," Johnson said.

For more information on how to donate or tow your inoperable vehicle, visit the FMWR Baumholder Auto Skills Parts Yard website at <https://baumholder.armymwr.com/promos/baumholder-auto-skills-parts-yard> or the 86th Force Support Squadron Auto Recycling program at <https://86fss.com/force-support/ramstein-auto-world/auto-recycling/>.

American Sign Language Class and Workshop

This class provides students with an opportunity to learn both the language and culture of the American Deaf community. The class will work on basic receptive and expressive American Sign Language (ASL) vocabulary and grammatical structure, as well as fingerspelling. Upon completion of this class participants will have a vocabulary of about 100 words in ASL. Following completion participants will have the opportunity to advance to intermediate class which focuses on conversational skills and more in-depth reception skills. For more information or to register, please contact Parent Central Services, Rhine Ordnance Barracks, Bldg. 162, 541-9066; 0611-143-541-9065/9066/9067.

Engineering Classes

Children ages 4+ will be introduced to the fundamentals of engineering. Students will have an opportunity to build electrical engines, working draw-bridges, fully functioning cranes and basic gear boxes. Students will also be introduced to engineering concepts using pneumatic principles and equipment. All of this is done using the registered brand of Fischertechnik materials. Worksheets will be handed out so that children can expand their understanding of learned concepts outside of the classroom. For more information or to register, please contact Parent Central Services, Rhine Ordnance Barracks, Bldg. 162, 541-9066; 0611-143-541-9065/9066/9067.

Parents and families of Kaiserslautern and Vogelweh Elementary,

This letter will provide you information on the changes coming to Kaiserslautern (KES) and Vogelweh Elementary (VES), including a list of the villages that will move to attend KES starting in August 2019.

As many of you are aware, in August of 2019, we will open the new VES. This is a 21st Century School learning environment with a significant focus on teacher co-planning/co-teaching and on student collaboration, communication, creative thinking and critical thinking. KES is only one year behind in this process and will also open its new 21st Century School in August of 2020. Both schools are working together now to prepare for this transition.

Because of these new school designs the capacity in both schools will change. VES must move more than 200 students to KES in August of 2019. All of these students will then permanently attend KES, including when it moves into its new facility in 2020.

Zoning changes for school year 2019-20 are as follows:

VES 2019-20: All current students that live in Vogelweh housing and walk to school & all students who ride the bus from Siegelbach, Einsiedlerhof and Kindsbach will attend VES.

KES 2019-20: All other villages and areas not listed above will attend KES

An opportunity to request to remain at one school will not be an option under regular circumstances this year. Students must attend the school that they are zoned to attend. All students will need to register for school as is standard practice each year. More information on registration will come from the schools in the spring.

We are very excited for the upcoming opportunities for students at KES and VES as they move into these incredible new learning environments. These are the first elementary schools of this kind in Europe and your students will thrive and grow as they learn together.

Sincerely,
Europe East District Leadership

Kingfish splash to convincing victory

The Purvis brothers of Kaiserslautern, Joseph Purvis and Jesse Purvis, compete against each other side-by-side to win the race.

It was senior recognition day for the Kaiserslautern Kingfish and they said goodbye to their senior captain with a dominant performance in their multi-team swimming meet at the Ramstein pool Saturday. Several Kingfishers won their events, outdistancing second place Stuttgart, but it was again the Pierrelouis siblings who made the biggest splash.

Connor Mulrooney, a senior honors student at Kaiserslautern High School, was recognized for his four years of hard work and leadership with the Kingfish. Mulrooney finished second in the 17 to 19-year-old 100 butterfly and the 400 freestyle in the last home meet in his career.

Emily Stuart solidified her hold on the number one EFSL 17-19 rankings in the 100-meter breaststroke with a convincing victory. She added a first place ribbon in the 200 freestyle. Teammate Jacob Golden is the top-ranked 400 freestyle swimmer in the age group. He is also ranked second in the ESFL in 200 freestyle and fourth in the 100 free. They will be favored to win their events at the Divisional races on Sunday. Noah Lang was the class winner in the 100 free.

However, the hottest swimmers heading into the tournament may be the Pierrelouis siblings. Ten-year-old Leon again set EFSL records with his 34.36 in the 50-meter butterfly and in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:53:44, which was six seconds faster than his previous time in that event. He also won the 50-meter breaststroke. His 50 freestyle was sub 30 seconds, which is tops in his age group. He also set records at the Kingfish's last meet two weeks ago. Every time he enters the pool a record could fall.

Big sister Alexis, competing in the 15 to 16-year-old division, set a new record with a 29.04 in the 50-meter butterfly, two seconds faster than her previous best. She also won the 100-meter butterfly and the 100-meter backstroke. She enters this week's Divisionals as the top-rated swimmer in the 50 freestyle and the 100 butterfly. She was joined in the 15-16 division's winner's circle by Ryan Kirby with wins in the 200 individual medley and 200 freestyle, Chloe Culbertson's first in the 100 breaststroke, John Tittel's victory in the 100-meter butterfly and Owen Dube's titles in the 100-meter backstroke and the 100-meter freestyle. The high school-aged swimmers can qualify for a varsity letter if they meet the criteria.

The Kingfish are strong in the upper grades, but are poised to be even stronger in the years to come. Their most dominant age group is the 13 to 14 group and their top competition is against each other. The closest race was between teammates Annabelle McFarland and Annika Zimmerer in the 100-meter breaststroke. McFarland edged Zimmerer by .14 seconds, touching the rail virtually at the same time. McFarland is ranked second in that event while Zimmerer won the 100 butterfly and the 100 backstroke, the event at which she is ranked number one in the division. Ten Kingfish finished first or second in the day's events in that age group, three of whom are ranked in the ESFL standings.

In the 11 to 12-year-old group, Megan Stuart is ranked in the ESFL in six of the eight events in which she participates. Victor Osadsky, Tyler Jones and Andre Rendon are all ranked in the ESFL. Rylie Horner trimmed four seconds off of her previous best, which is very difficult to do. Tyler Jones qualified in the 200 individual medley. It was the first time he had ever participated in that event.

Marcus Kennedy, swimming in the eight and under group, had never swum the IM before Saturday. But his performance was so stellar that he is now the fifth-rated swimmer in that event in his age group. He also won his 50 backstroke race.

The divisional meet will be held Sunday. It is last team event before the championship meet at Eindhoven, the Netherlands, on the first weekend in March.

Experience, depth help Ramstein dominate

Aiden Stcyr of Ramstein tied up with Brendan Kealoha of Lakenheath.

Ramstein superior depth and experience was too much to overcome for five opponents as the Royals overpowered five opponents to claim the team title at its home wrestling tournament Saturday. The Royals scored 249.5 points. Runners-up Wiesbaden picked up 168.5, Kaiserslautern had 114.50, followed by Spangdahlem, Lakenheath, Alconbury and Baumholder.

Through talent and sheer numbers, the Royals scored points in almost every event with five first place finishes, four seconds, five thirds and four fourths.

The meet had a two-way system of scoring. Some of the weight classes carried the bracket format while others competed round robin, each of the wrestlers going against everyone in a given weight classification.

The Royals' Connor Mackie was one of the outstanding performers at the meet. He decisioned reigning European Department of Defense Education Activity All Europe Abreyu Allen of Wiesbaden 5-0 in the final match at 126 pounds. He won his first bout 12-0 and recorded falls in his next two before winning the final match.

At 132, Royals teammates Brian McKinley and Christian Griffith scrapped in the finals with Griffith taking the title. They were very familiar with each other after battling daily in practice. Griffith won on a technical fall 18-3.

Logan Campbell was victorious over Wiesbaden's Jack Rohling at 138 pounds with a quick pin at 1:36.

One of the most entertaining and strongly contested matches of the day was at 152 pounds, where Ramstein's Oliver Seelig edged Jay Brown of Kaiserslautern 19-14. Seelig needed two late points to put it away.

Gabe Davis needed just 42 seconds to defeat Lakenheath's Nick Scifo at 182 pounds. Davis pinned his semifinal opponent in 52 seconds to advance.

Kaiserslautern's Christian Forker picked up the Raiders' lone victory with a 13-7 decision over Ray Castro of Wiesbaden at 160. Forker won his first match on points, then pinned the next three for the victory.

The gutsiest victory of the day belonged to Brian Haney of Spangdahlem at 145 pounds. Mixing it up with Ramstein's Tayler Worley, the paramedics were called in as Haney yelled in obvious pain. But he rebounded and got the technical fall for the title.

In the round robin 106 pound class, Ramstein's John Odom dominated with 18-2 and 16-1 technical falls and a pin against Lukas Ahrend of Kaiserslautern.

In the battle of the large, Jackson Fontenot of Wiesbaden defeated Ramstein's Carl Wilcox with a quick fall at 285 pounds.

Kaiserslautern's 113-pounder Skye Flannigan scored a major decision over Faith Fairrel before falling to outstanding Ramstein senior Andres Hart, sending her to the lower bracket. She rebounded with a convincing pin of Ray Woodard of Lakenheath before falling in the third-place match to Wiesbaden's Reyder Rivera. The Raiders Napoleon Cox pinned Ramstein's Aidan Stcyr in the third-place match at 138 pounds. Kaiserslautern's Andrew Wells was third at 170 pounds.

Baumholder brought seven wrestlers to the match, one junior, two sophomores and four freshmen. The Buccaneers tallied ten points, mostly coming in the round robin portion of the event. However, first-year head coach Matthew Martinez refused to use school size as an excuse for the lack of points.

"They all weigh the same," he said, referring to wrestlers going against athletes in the same weight class as them. "We are young and inexperienced. But we work hard every practice and spend two days a week in the weight room to get stronger. We look at how they do week to week and are seeing some good improvement." He added that if they all stay in the program, with a few more recruits and some more experience and the added physical maturity, the Buccaneers will be stronger in the next few years.

"I think the point we try to get across to them is that they cannot blame anyone for anything. They know if they keep working and don't make excuses, good things will happen."

One of the most hotly contested bouts was a rematch at 220 pounds between Ramstein's Theodore Ward and Wiesbaden's Devin Holland. They met in the first match early in the day with Ward squeaking out a 5-2 decision. In the final matchup, the two extremely strong human beings looked like two bull elk in battle, each trying to assert his will. It remained scoreless for several minutes as neither could establish an advantage, but Ward finally got Holland on his back for the fall.

Ramstein, Baumholder and Kaiserslautern will be in Kaiserslautern next weekend for a seven team tournament. The meet includes perennial challenger Ramstein.

German-American Stammtisch highlights topics, starts discussions

by 86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

Editor's Note: This article was published in a previous edition of the Kaiserslautern American and the information has been updated to reflect this year's event.

The German-American Stammtisch is a monthly get-together of Americans and Germans living in the KMC. They meet at 6:30 p.m. every first Tuesday of the month at the Paradox restaurant in Ramstein-Miesenbach. Actually, a "Stammtisch" is a table, at a restaurant or pub, where guests come regularly to sit down to have a drink and talk.

The Stammtisch is a project of the state initiative, "Welcome to Rheinland-Pfalz! Our neighbors from the USA," which is sponsored by the Atlantic Academy Rheinland-Pfalz in Kaiserslautern.

Elke Sittel, 86th Airlift Wing host nation advisor, speaks to the German-American Stammtisch attendants about her office's work, mission and programs at the Paradox restaurant in Ramstein-Miesenbach.

"Our state initiative helps U.S. families to become a member of the local community," said John Constance, project coordinator. "We try to give them the right answers to their emerging questions and being aware of German customs, local businesses, clubs and events can accelerate this adjustment after a PCS." "The next Stammtisch meeting will be on February 5, 6.30 pm, at the Paradox restaurant in Ramstein, with the Army Community Services (ACS) of the U.S. Army Garrison Rheinland-Pfalz being the guest speaker of the evening. Heather Robinson, Chief ACS, and her colleagues will discuss their host nation activities and ongoing efforts to integrate new arrivals and provide education and introductions to the area that lead to a positive experience. This is meant to give Germans and Americans a better understanding of the programs run by different institutions to foster the community and help bring together both sides."

"One important idea of the Stammtisch is, to involve both Americans and Germans in discussions and asking questions," Constance said.

The December Stammtisch took place at the Congress Center in Ramstein as a potluck dinner in a nice and cozy atmosphere, kicking off the holiday season. Another regular Stammtisch attendant is Marisol Cediél from Ramstein-Miesenbach.

"I worked for more than 40 years on Ramstein Air Base, and as a retiree, I enjoy coming here and being able to speak in English," Cediél said. "I miss meeting Americans each day, and the Stammtisch gives me an opportunity to be around some and make new friends."

For details, visit www.facebook.com/WelcometoRLP, get into contact with the Stammtisch group at <https://goo.gl/jB67r9>, or email Constance at constance@atlantische-akademie.de. NOTE: Stammtisch visitors parking across the street on the parking lot of NKD and the copy shop, must buy a parking ticket. Failure in doing so will result in a €30 fine.

10 tips for photographing your property for sale or rent

by FindItGuideProperties.com

Lots of private sellers and renters use The Find-It Guide to sell or rent their houses, apartments or TLAs online. But some do better than others. Want to know why? Photos! Taking awesome photos really enhances a listing. So here are ten tips to improve your property's listings

- Clear all personal items out of each room (like dirty laundry).
- Clean the windows (so all the views look great).
- Wait for good lighting. Midday lighting can be a bit harsh. Morning and evening are ideal, when the sun is golden and you can avoid shadows and glare.
- Make sure people and animals are not in the frame when taking pictures (watch out for mirrors).
- Fill the frame with the property, not the background. Your house or apartment is the star. Crop images to just around the property if necessary before you upload.

- Have you thought about making a quick video while you are shooting? Walk around the property holding your camera steady. It will give a great impression of the grounds and really enhance your listing.

- Take pictures of the whole property from every angle, includ-

- Consider using a tripod to get sharp, in focus shots. Don't be afraid to get down on your knees and find interesting/dramatic angles to make your property look as appealing as possible.
- Make the first image the 'money shot.' Your best full view of the property that fills the frame.

You may have a winning place to live or rent, but if you don't present it in a way that shows off all the best attributes, the number of inquiries you get will suffer. Think about what you would like to see if you were getting a place for yourself and you will be headed in the right direction.

New email survey aims to gauge Army housing quality

Yvonne Sullivan helps a Soldier with housing at U.S. Army Garrison Bavaria, Germany. Sullivan is with the Bavaria housing office. Soldiers and Family members can rate Family housing owned and leased by the Army through a survey that runs Jan. 15 through Feb. 14. The survey includes housing in the United States and overseas, such as the Army housing at U.S. Army Garrison Bavaria.

Residents of Family housing owned and leased by the Army can again rate the quality of their housing and housing services.

Administered by CEL & Associates Inc., the survey was emailed to approximately 10,000 residents living in Army-owned and Army-leased housing worldwide on Jan. 15, from ArmyHousingSurvey@celassociates.com.

The survey's purpose is to receive firsthand accounts of what Soldiers and Families find important when living in Army-owned on-post and leased Family housing.

The housing survey is used to identify areas in housing operations that are successful or need improvement, where funding could have the most effect and are identified as top priorities to residents, and ascertain areas of success for the garrison housing office, according to Lt. Gen. Gwen Bingham, Army Assistant Chief of Staff for Installation Management.

"Your feedback about your experiences while residing in Army-owned or leased housing is critical to shaping the future housing and services provided by the Army," Bingham said.

CEL & Associates emailed an initial housing survey in 2018 to 9,957 residents living in Army Family housing, with 2,025 residents responding (a rate of 20.3 percent). Army housing officials want to increase participation in the 2019 survey.

A higher response rate will give Army officials a more accurate depiction of Soldiers' and their Families' satisfaction with Army Family housing and the services offered by garrison housing offices, housing officials said.

"All surveys are confidential. Your frank feedback about your experiences in Army Family Housing may help to shape future housing programs and services and help guide future decisions that could impact generations of Soldiers and Families," said Lt. Gen. Bradley A. Becker, Installation Management Command commander.

The Army wants maximum outreach and participation to measure residents' satisfaction with housing accommodations, as well as the services they received from the Army

Housing Office.

Residents who have not received an email with the survey link by Jan. 18 should contact their local housing offices.

The survey is open through Feb. 14. Residents of privatized Residential Communities Initiative housing will be surveyed in March.

It is almost that time of year again, love it or loathe it; Valentine's Day is just around the corner. If you want to do something special for your loved one, we have plenty of tricks for you to stuff up your sleeve. It is not all about spending a lot of dough, you can demonstrate someone your love in lots of different ways that they will really appreciate. We've put together a few suggestions to get your ideas flowing, take a look!

Breakfast In Bed

It really is the little things that mean a lot, and what is better than breakfast in bed? This will put your partner in a great mood from the start of the day; they will definitely get out of the right side of the bed. Why not be creative and make heart shaped pancakes of fried eggs with using a special cutter. Check out your local discount store for some cheap Valentine's Day themed plates and glasses; they are guaranteed to put a smile on your lover's face!

Post It Notes

Why not make a really romantic gesture that is sure to make your partner feel special by leaving sticky notes around the house. Write notes about your feelings and favorite things about your special person. Fill a page of sticky colorful notes with loads of romantic gestures and stick them in the fridge, wardrobe, on the walls, on the door handle. You can cut them in different shapes if you wish like a heart, circle, flower, etc.

You've Been Framed

The two of you probably have hundreds of couple photos taken and collected over the years. But where are they all, stored away on your desktop, Facebook or in the back of a shelf? They are probably just sitting around collecting dust. Well we reckon that it is time to do something about it. A framed photo can make such special gift for your significant other, or why not compile a photo album in chronological order of your time together? Another idea is printing different pictures of you together and forming a heart shape on the wall. We promise you that your partner's heart will melt when they see all the thought and love that has gone into this gift. For a professional framing service visit The Frame Shop in Kaiserslautern.

Whether you have been lovers since a school age, university or it is a newly sparked romance, it is always important to make that special effort on Valentine's Day. If you have been with your partner for many years and have kids, it doesn't mean you should feel less excited about this special day for lovers. Take a day off for yourselves – leave the kids in childcare for a day or with someone you trust and feel young again! Happy Valentine's Day!
